KIDNAP AND EXTORTIONIST RING REVEALED WHEN 15 ARE CAPTURED BY CHICAGO POLICE

New True Bills Loom Today in City Graft Probe

JURY TO CONSIDER ACTION AGAINST ONE 'NEW' PERSON

Other Charges Expected To Be Returned Against Officials Already Placed Under Bond.

SOLICITOR BOYKIN RETURNS THURSDAY

100 Witnesses, Many of Whom Have Previously Testified, Are Subpoenaed by Grand Jurors

With additional indictments expected today or Tuesday, the March grand jury this afternoon will swing into the second week of its continued investigation into alleged graft and corruption in the affairs of the municipal government. While one arm of the prosecuting staff prepares for trials to begin next week, the other delves deeper into the purported maze of intrigue which has been governing the affairs of Atlanta for the last several years.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin who went to Florida last week after four months of night and day direction of the graft probe, is expected to return to Atlanta Thursday or Friday of this week to give his final approval to plans for the prosecution of Councilman Harry York, the sixth ward, Jack White, his business associate, and City Purchasing Agent W. P. Price, the first of 20 persons already indicted who are to face a jury in Judge John D. Humphries division of the Fulton superior court a week from Tuesday.

New Name Included.

The additional indictments expected today will include only one new person, it was said Sunday, if any true bills are returned at all. The other charges, if filed by the grand jury, are expected to be against persons already under bond on previously returned indictments. Though it was reliably reported Saturday that two members of council, heretofore not mentioned in the graft indictments, are to face true bills before the investigation is completed, it was learned definitely Sunday that the evidence against these two men is not yet in such a shape to warrant the return of true bills.

The grand jury, once the reported indictments expected today have been returned, will continue its inquiry into the affairs of the board of education, stressing its efforts to find reported corruption in the deal whereby the city erected the Henry Grady High school on Parkway drive, the walls of which are reported crumbling and a section of which is said to have sunk into the earth because of improper construction, and also continuing its probe of alleged extravagances in the operation and management of Grady hospital, the city's leading charitable institution.

Special Prosecutor William Schley Howard, who has been directing the course of the grand jury probe in the absence of Solicitor-General Boykin, has subpoenaed nearly two-score witnesses for appearance at this afternoon's session, which is to begin at 2 o'clock and to continue until all of the witnesses summoned for the day have been heard, if it requires a night session, he announced Sunday night.

100 Witnesses Recalled.

Nearly a hundred witnesses, many of whom have been before previous grand juries investigating the alleged municipal corruption, have been recalled for appearance this week, it was said, the grand jury hoping within the next two weeks to complete all the "odds and ends" yet unfinished and at the conclusion of this program launching into a systematic

Paralysis Epidemic Scares Tennessee

Fifty-Six Are Stricken in Three Counties; Doctors Fear Poison Booze Is Cause.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., March 9.—(AP)—Fifty-six cases of partial paralysis, in a form which so far has thwarted all efforts to diagnose, were reported today to health officers of Washington, Carter and Unicoi counties.

Dr. S. S. Moody, Washington county health officer, said here tonight that 33 cases had been reported in his county. He said he was investigating "the possibility that poison alcohol is the cause."

In Carter county, Dr. E. W. King, health officer, reported 19. Thirteen were known there yesterday. The Washington county reports indicated an increase of 21 known illnesses during 24 hours.

Four similar cases were under treatment in nearby Unicoi county.

Dr. Moody said no cause had been definitely determined, though several of the patients had been drinking liquor of doubtful quality.

A state health officer has been summoned.

OKLAHOMA VICTIMS SHOW IMPROVEMENT.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 9.—(AP)—The cause of a paralysis-like malady which has stricken about 300 residents of Oklahoma City tonight remained a mystery, but physicians and chemists viewed the situation with optimism as the condition of some of the patients improved.

Dr. Walter H. Miles, city health director, reiterated his belief that the strange disease could be attributed directly to the drinking of Jamaica ginger, and expressed the belief that danger, for the present at least, had passed.

"I am convinced," he said, "that all of the cases were caused by one bad shipment of Jamaica ginger."

Dr. Miles said the nature of the drug which caused the paralysis had not been determined although other physicians who have been studying the cases under observation believed some drug which had been used as a denaturant of the alcohol in the Jamaica ginger was to blame.

The city health director said he believed the maximum number of those stricken with the disease could be established roughly at 300, although he agreed with other physicians and nerve specialists that there probably would be other cases classed as "sympathetic," and attributed more to a mental than a physical condition. With the number of new cases halted, however, this class also was expected to disappear.

No deaths which could be attributed directly to the malady have occurred, but until the condition of persons in the hospitals began to improve, physicians were frank in expressing doubts as to the possible failure of the sufferers.

Chemists worked all day seeking to establish the drug which caused the attacks. Several physicians said the cases they had observed resembled lead poisoning, but no trace of this element could be isolated by the tests. If the contaminated liquor were confined to one bad shipment, as Dr. Miles believes, he said it was possible that the entire shipment had been consumed, and that no samples could be secured for tests.

The plight of the sufferers acted as an emphatic deterrent to drink, police agreed. Only seven persons were arrested for being intoxicated last night, whereas the number usually is between 35 and 40, for Saturday night, the desk sergeant said.

Rev. Will Houghton Takes New Pulpit

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—The Rev. Will H. Houghton today became head of Calvary Baptist church, taking the pulpit filled for 11 years by the late Dr. Roach Straton, noted fundamentalist. Mr. Houghton has been supply preacher in Tremont temple, Boston; Moody church, Chicago; Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, and Baptist tabernacle, Atlanta, Ga.

ADMIRAL BYRD WILL LAND TODAY

Four Members of Expedition Already Back in Civilization.

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 10—(Monday)—(UN)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd came within sight of land and civilization today, more than a year and a half after sailing from New York to explore the Antarctic and fly across the south pole.

His flagship, the bark City of New York, was sighted at 10:30 a. m., and prepared to move up the harbor of Dunedin, where a great welcome awaited him.

A bright sun shone from a cloudless sky, and throngs gathered at the docks to catch a first glimpse of the Americans who had been so long "at the bottom of the world."

Cabinet ministers, members of the harbor board, naval officers and the mayor of Dunedin waited to welcome Byrd. They had arranged a civic reception for him this evening. Tomorrow the rear admiral will be the guest of the harbor board and the chamber of commerce.

Four members of the party landed today.

They were Captain Ashley McKinley, aerial photographer who flew with Byrd to the south pole; Joseph Ruckej, Paramount cameraman; Arthur Walden, noted dog driver, and Russell Owen, New York newspaperman.

They served as an advance guard to Byrd and others of the expedition, who are expected to arrive tomorrow aboard the City of New York and Eleanor Bolling to the acclaim of thousands.

The four were landed at Stewart island Saturday by the whaling vessel C. A. Larson, to which they and three others—Paul Siple, a Boy Scout; Martine Ronne and John Bayer—had been transferred from the Byrd flagship, City of New York. Stewart island is about 100 miles south of here and is the base of whaling fleets.

Owen, in an interview, said there had been many anxious moments while the City of New York was getting away from the ice barrier that had blocked the path from the Byrd camp, Little America.

A feature of the expedition's success, Owen said, was the freedom of its members from sickness and accidents. A majority actually gained in weight during the year on the ice.

Life was monotonous during the long stay in Antarctica, Owen said, but the party was always cheerful and everyone friendly.

Beavers Gives Himself 'Ticket' In Traffic Crash

Chief of Police James L. Beavers will be a defendant in Recorder A. W. Callaway's court this morning, charged with reckless driving. The chief himself directed that the charge be docketed.

Sunday afternoon Chief Beavers was driving his car downtown when it ran afoul of another machine, driven by Sam Hay, 17, of 355 Lucille avenue. The chief was making a turn off Holderness street into Avon street when Hay's car struck that of Atlanta's ranking police officer and catapulted, struck first a telephone pole and then a firebox and, finally, after reversing its driving direction completely, came to a stop. Hay narrowly escaped injury.

Call Oficers W. B. Wallace and L. C. Jones, summoned by the cihef himself, were told to prefer charges against both drivers. They were released on their respective recognizance and Judge Callaway will pass upon their respective driving faults today.

Florida Republicans Quit Party Positions

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Glenn B. Skipper, republican national committeeman for Florida, and E. E. Calloway, republican state chairman, jointly announced their resignations from these offices today, and at the same time Mr. Skipper announced his decision not to be a candidate for congress from the first district.

The action of the two party leaders followed conferences here last night and today which were said to have resulted in a general agreement that harmony would prevail in the rank and file of the party if they were out as its heads.

William J. Howey, of Howey-in-the-Hills, former republican candidate for governor, said the resignations removed "the last possible object for conflict within the party.

IMPORTANT RATES STILL UNDECIDED IN TARIFF FIGHT

Senate Nears End of Long Struggle With Constantly Changing Majorities.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP)—Faced by an ever-changing majority, the senate will resume work on the tariff bill this week with virtually all the important industrial rates hanging in the balance.

The old coalition of democrats and republican independents, which won almost every important contest in the last six months of debate only to run up against a new majority last week on sugar and cement, will be found maneuvering to regain these losses and to prevent further inroads on the bill they have rewritten.

The revived republican old guard devoted the week-end to a drive to retain the sugar increase and the duty on cement, now a free list commodity, both of which are to be put to a further vote on demand of the old coalition.

In addition, the new combination again will seek to place tariffs on oil and lumber, which the democrats and western republicans turned back recently, and to restore existing levies on window and plate glass, pig iron, aluminum, hollow drill steel and other rates which the coalition slashed at the height of its strength.

Clash Expected.

The first meeting day is expected to see another clash over sugar. Senator Nye, republican independent, North Dakota, is ready to bring up his motion to reconsider the 47 to 39 vote by which Cuban raw sugar was given a rate of 2 cents a pound as compared with 1.76 now in force. The group behind him is confident of enough votes to gain reconsideration, but whether the ballot will be upset and the present rate restored remains to be seen.

Nye, who voted for the sugar increase, demanded another vote after the senate upset another previous decision and placed cement on the dutiable list at 6 cents per 100 pounds. He is not convinced that the sugar vote was entirely free from a "trading agreement," and he believes another ballot will determine whether an understanding actually exists. Nye also asked another vote on cement.

Object of Attack.

The tariff bill was the object of an attack today by Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, who asserted it had become "increasingly clear that the bill will go to conference as a Mellon-Grundy measure."

He assailed "attempts to saddle the administration's burden of unemployment on the so-called delay in the passage of the tariff," asserting they presented a "sorry spectacle in which Secretary of Labor Davis appears as the leading figure."

"His contradictory statements," Connally said, "have been debunked by virtually every American newspaper regardless of politics and branded as a cheap attempt at evasion."

"Originated under the pretext of aiding the farmer," he continued, "the present tariff bill bids fair to be converted into an engine of further oppression of the consuming public. It is a safe prediction that congress will pass the bill agreed upon in conference, as it always has done, and that the president will sign it."

TREASURY DEFICIT IS FACING HOOVER AS REVENUE FALLS

Heavy Spending Absorbs Surplus and Officials Turn Anxious Eyes To Income Returns.

BY CHARLES D. WATKINS,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP)—With a dwindling surplus in government revenue indicated for the end of the present fiscal year, treasury officials are watching closely the first quarter's tax on 1929 measures to determine whether receipts in President Hoover's first full fiscal year will be adversely affected by the stock market collapse last fall.

The surplus of $225,000,000 indicated when the executive submitted his first budget to congress last December already has been reduced. If congress grants the president's request made Saturday for $100,000,000 additional for the farm board, the surplus will be further reduced to $45,000,000.

Small Margin.

This margin between a deficit and a surplus is so small that even with income tax payments as great as received last year it would be wiped out, and the larger receipts expected before the collapse would be required to balance the budget.

The indicated surplus of $225,000,000 first was reduced $80,000,000 by the 1 per cent tax reduction granted in normal tax on 1929 incomes by congress. The total cut was $160,000,000, but half of it will be in the 1931 fiscal year.

The tax as on 1929 incomes must reach the government by next Saturday midnight and for the remainder of the month they will pour into the treasury at the rate of more than $50,000,000 a day.

The threat of the Wall Street crash to reduce income tax payments is regarded as real by fiscal officials. Investors, who had been counted upon to pay a larger tax this year than last when they set a record, lost heavily in the violent fluctuations of the market last fall.

Result In Doubt.

Until March 15 payments are tabulated, however, it will not be known whether the payments will exceed those of last year.

If the payments are only as large as last year a deficit seems almost certain. While individual taxes are expected to decline, officials hope that the prosperous business of 1929 will swell corporation payments and provide enough revenue to produce a substantial surplus.

Last year the March payments amounted to $601,000,000, while the June payments totaled $458,000,000, bringing the total for the fiscal year to $2,330,711,822. Already this fiscal year, which started last July 1, the income tax payments up to March 4 amounted to $1,257,662,599, an increase of $168,000,000 over the same period last year, but the payments thus far have been on 1928 incomes.

If the March and June payments only equal last year's the total for the 12 months will amount to $2,316,000,000 or $164,000,000 less than the $2,480,000,000 that the treasury estimated it would receive from that source. If this drop in the collections should materialize, it would, together with the loss of $80,000,000 through the

Nation Pays Taft Its Highest Honor

Body To Lie in State at Capitol Before Burial in Arlington; Services To Be Held Tuesday.

BY H. O. THOMPSON,
United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(UN) William Howard Taft will receive the highest honor paid to America's notable dead Tuesday when his body will lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol and then be laid to its final rest among the country's heroes of peace and war in Arlington cemetery across the Potomac.

It was Taft's own wish that he be buried in Arlington cemetery, on the rolling grassy slopes overlooking the city where he served the nation as president and chief justice, the only man ever to enjoy this joint honor.

Members of the family announced tonight after an hour's conference with Colonel Campbell Hodges, military aide to the president, that the former president's body would lie in state for a few hours Tuesday morning before the funeral at All Souls' Unitarian church here in the afternoon. Interment at Arlington will follow.

Taft will share the rare honor of lying in state at the capitol with a few other presidents and the unknown soldier. But he is the only president to die after he left office who has been so honored.

The late President Harding was the last to lie in state in the capacious room under the great dome, the walls of which are hung with canvases of the famous scenes in the country's history. There Harding received the homage of thousands of citizens who passed in a continual line before his casket all of a humid, sweltering August day in 1923.

Abraham Lincoln and James A. Garfield, two other presidents who died in office—both at the hands of an assassin—were accorded the honor that will be paid Taft.

As usual on these rare occasions, the great doors of the capitol will be thrown open to the public after the family, members of the supreme court, and close friends have passed through the rotunda.

The dead ex-president will be buried on a wind-blown slope in Arlington, where lie notable military heroes, including General Nelson A. Miles, who was buried there a few years ago. The grave of William Jennings Bryan also is there.

Robert A. and Charles P. Taft, sons of the departed former president and chief justice, selected the burial plot this afternoon. It is on a hillside across the Potomac river from Washington, near the tomb of Robert Lincoln and half a mile northeast of the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A memorial visible from the Washington bank of the Broad river will be erected.

Interment will be Tuesday after the funeral from All Souls' Unitarian church, the place of worship of Mr. Taft and the Taft family during his official life in Washington. President Hoover, Chief Justice Holmes, and the supreme court will attend.

Beautiful Spot.

The Taft place of interment is one of the most beautiful in the great cemetery. A new memorial bridge over the Potomac is under construction and when completed it will lead almost directly to the tomb. The plot lies on a gentle slope about 50 feet from the huge oblong tomb of Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the famous Civil War president. Visible from Washington the memorial will be in such a location that from the spot a sweeping view may be had of the winding Potomac and the capital buildings in which the former chief justice served his country for so many years.

Mr. Taft, in his last resting place, will occupy a spot overlooking the scenes of his triumphs, disappointments and defeats in the political field and his final elevation to the chief justiceship.

Mr. Taft's two sons arrived today from Cincinnati, having left their homes for Washington as soon as news of their father's death yesterday evening was telephoned to them. Mr. Taft's brother, Horace, headmaster of Taft school, Watertown, Conn., also arrived today. His other brother, who had been vacationing at Augusta, Ga., was expected late tonight. A daughter, Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, dean of Bryn Mawr College, Pa., has been here several days with Mrs. Taft.

Sanford Funeral.

Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Stone, McReynolds and Butler were leaving tonight for Knoxville with the body of Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford, who died a few hours before Mr. Taft. They will attend the Sanford funeral in Knoxville and return immediately to Washington to attend the services for Mr. Taft. A train will be held if necessary to enable them to make connections.

Congress will recess, probably for two days, as a result of the two deaths, Justice Holmes will formally adjourn the court at noon tomorrow until Wednesday.

A death mask of Mr. Taft was taken today by Edgardo Simone, New York sculptor, who has just completed

GRAFTERS FLAYED BY DR. BROUGHTON

"Tweed Never More Diabolical Than What Atlanta Faces," Pastor Says

"Boss Tweed, of Tammany Hall fame, in the heyday of his graft form of theft, was never more diabolical in principle than what we are faced with in Atlanta today," Dr. Len G. Broughton, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, charged in his Sunday night sermon which dealt with the revelations of the Fulton county grand jury and brought from the minister a suggestion that the present form of government needs changing.

"We will never even check this graft business," Dr. Broughton declared, "until we at least reduce the number of councilmen to one-half; that is, one from each ward, and have them nominated and elected by the city at large. The school board should be entirely divorced from the city council and elected in the same way that we should elect councilmen and aldermen.

"Atlanta," the Tabernacle pastor continued, "has got to get rid of the ward politician as a lawmaker and manager of her business affairs. The movement has now begun and it should not stop. It may take severe means to put it across but if nothing else will accomplish it let the severe means come—the quicker the better."

Dr. Broughton's sermon subject was "Atlanta in the Grip of Grafters and Robbers." He took his text from Luke 19:8—"And Zacchaeus stood and said unto the Lord: Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor and if I have taken anything

KNOXVILLE PLANS SANFORD FUNERAL

Former Justice Will Be Buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 9.—(AP)—Arrangements were completed today for the funeral here tomorrow of Edward T. Sanford, justice of the United States supreme court, who died in Washington yesterday and whose body will arrive here Monday afternoon at 1:45 p. m.

Accompanied by a distinguished funeral party, the body will be taken directly to Greenwood cemetery. There, after a brief Episcopal service, it will be lowered into its grave. The Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, will conduct the service.

Those in charge of the arrangements here announced that Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone, Butler and McReynolds will be in the party and will be honorary pallbearers. Chief Justice Grafton Green of the Tennessee supreme court also will be an honorary pallbearer.

All the active pallbearers selected today are Knoxville attorneys and businessmen associated with Justice Sanford during his career as an attorney and judge before he left the district federal bench here in 1923 to become a supreme court justice.

Southern railway officials announced that passenger train No. 42 will be held at Bristol in order that Justice Sanford's colleagues of the supreme bench may return to Washington in time to attend the funeral of William Howard Taft. A special train will take them to Bristol.

Active pallbearers will be: Jay Donaldson, Horace Van Deventer, Carey Spence, Rogers Van Gilder, William Rule, Frank Mead and W. C. Ross.

Honorary, in addition to state and national justices and the entire Knoxville bar: James Fowler, Knoxville, former assistant United States attorney-general; Judge Xen Hicks of the United States court of appeals; Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee; Major T. S. Webb, said to be probably the oldest member of the Knoxville bar; U. L. McClung, prominent citizen here; Judge George C. Taylor, federal district judge here; Chancellor Robert M. Jones of the eleventh chancery district; Newell Sanders, Chattanooga, former United States senator, and Asa Hazen, Knoxville businessman and friend of Justice Sanford.

'Reds' Adjourn In Haste

:: TWO YOUTHFUL ORGANIZERS JAILED BY POLICE ::

As Tear Bombs Burst

Atlanta's acquaintance with communists, generally understood to be the name of a political party with its mainspring somewhere in Russia, was slightly renewed Sunday afternoon when between 75 and 100 men and women, black and white, encountered a couple of tear gas bombs which police say were thrown by a red sympathizer who had attended a called session at Rucker's hall, a third floor meeting place at the corner of Auburn and Piedmont avenues.

The explosion led to the arrest of two youths who gave police their names of M. H. Powers and Joe Carr. They were booked at the police station on charges of disorderly conduct and "spieling," a joint charge which was never clearly explained on the blotter. The two, with Miss Mary Dalton, awaiting trial on a charge of disturbing the meeting William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, held here a week ago Sunday, have approached O. C. Hancock, attorney, with offices in the Hurt building, to represent them. Bonds of $100 each were posted Sunday for Powers and Carr, while Miss Dalton had previously posted a bond of $300.

About 100 persons, black and white, had responded to a circular appeal to attend the mass meeting in the interest of the workers of Atlanta. Powers was billed to speak on "The City Grafters and the Unemployment Situation" while Carr, said to be a young communist league organizer, was billed to speak on "The Youth in the Next War."

Answering a call which came to headquarters, Captain Grover C. Fain and Captain J. W. Barfield took a squad of 20 patrolmen and plainclothes officers and went to ascertain the trouble back of the complaint. The officers found the communists ready to plead the cause of the masses before an audience of blacks and whites. The two organizers were taken to headquarters, where Chief of Police Beavers, after hearing the report of his men, directed that they be released.

Meanwhile, the audience was waiting—for something. It soon happened. A young man, described to be of ultra blond type, loosed a tear gas bomb. The audience rushed pell mell down two flights of stairs, one man, according to subsequent reports to the police, being injured in flight and a number of men driven to tears.

Under direction of Lieutenant Barfield, police took Powers and Carr to the scene of their communistic activities and discovered the result of the gas bomb explosion. Patrolmen Ed Cason and R. T. Denny promptly rearrested Powers and Carr and this time Chief Beavers directed that they be held for trial before Recorder A. W. Calloway this morning.

Miss Dalton, who spoke at a number of meetings held in Rucker's Hall and at communist headquarters, 422 1-2 Decatur street, prior to the Sunday afternoon disturbance, was said to be out of the city.

GANG AMBUSHED IN ATTEMPTING TO OBTAIN RANSOM

State's Attorney's Office Identifies Members as Those Who Abducted Insurance Executive.

GUNMAN LEADER IS FIRST ARRESTED

Gang Has Obtained Quarter of Million Dollars in Ransom, Say Officials of Police Force.

CHICAGO, March 9.—(AP)—Capture of 15 men, said by police to be members of a ring which has extorted thousands of dollars from Cook county victims through kidnaping and torture, was revealed by the state's attorney's office today.

One of the men was seized as he walked into a Michigan Boulevard gown shop allegedly to collect $25,000 ransom from Theodore Kopelman, an official of the Chicago National Life Insurance Company. Five others were caught as they waited outside in a car.

Kopelman had reported to Patrick Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney John A. Swanson, that he had been kidnaped early in the morning of February 26 as he drove toward his home and had been taken to a West Side house where he was kept for a day and a half. Then he related, he was removed to a cottage at Delmar Lake, near Antioch, where the kidnapers demanded $25,000 ransom and heated irons in his presence while they discussed means of torturing him if he did not comply. He finally agreed, he said, and negotiated for payment of $4,000 with a promise to pay the balance later.

Kopelman took the matter up with Roche and the latter persuaded him to make an appointment with the men to meet him at the gown shop of his sister, Gertrude Kopelman. Detectives were stationed across the boulevard and behind dresses in the store.

At the appointed hour, Sam Pellar, notorious gangster, entered and was faced by the muzzles of shotguns. Other officers seized the men in the cab, and nine more were taken at their apartments in various parts of the city.

Pellar has been identified with election disorders in the "Bloody Twentieth" ward and was with the late Hymie Weiss when the latter was mowed down by machine gun bullets in front of the Holy Name cathedral in October, 1926.

Seized with Pellar were: Irving Sandler, once indicted as a bomber; Charles Hadesman, reputed election terrorist; Sam Gold, Norman Resnick and Michael Rosenberg. The others were lesser known hoodlums.

"I know of at least six kidnapings for which this gang is responsible," Roche said today. "Within six months they have acquired at least $250,000 in this way. Most of their victims were business men. They threatened great physical pain and, if they failed to pay in full after being freed, threatened the same torture to their families."

Roche placed guards around the home of Kopelman and his sister and at the insurance company's office. Detectives were dispatched to the Delmar lake section, but found nothing of importance in their early investigation.

Sandler, Pellar and Gold have been positively identified, the state's attorney's office said, as members of the actual kidnaping party which abducted Kopelman.

Mine Union Meets At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 9.—(AP)—The 31st consecutive constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers of America, which opens here tomorrow, is likely to be a peaceful, pro-administration session if the calm that marked the spirit of the advance delegations today is an indication.

Councilman Berman Seeks Compulsory Late Primaries

Resolution Drawn for Democratic Committee; Special Body To Consider Election Law Changes

When a special council committee meets this afternoon to consider proposed sweeping changes in existing election laws, Councilman Joseph E. Berman, its chairman, will offer amendments to changes which already have been outlined for the purpose of curing many objections to the holding of early primaries.

With the consent of his colleague, Councilman John A. White, Councilman Berman will offer a new proposal to make late primaries compulsory and submit to the democratic executive committee of the city of Atlanta a new resolution which, if adopted, would ask council not to authorize the holding of any primary for the nomination of city officials prior to September 1 of any year.

Amendments which Mr. Berman will offer provide that the registration lists shall not be used prior to September 1, nor later than November 1, so that the primaries would be held at least 30 days prior to the general election. Sale of the lists by the city registrar would be only upon a written application binding the applicant not to use or display registration lists prior to September 1 and not after November 1.

Changes proposed by Councilman Berman have for their object the elimination of ward politics in the selection of city officials and force the election of all members of council and the board of education, as well as aldermen, the mayor and department heads to be elected by the city at large.

The resolution addressed to the democratic executive committee of Atlanta follows:

"Whereas early city primaries have been condemned and much cause of complaint, and

"Whereas under an early primary a successful candidate has to wait more than six months before he can take office, and

"Whereas under an early primary the incumbent in office has to run for re-election before he has served two-thirds of his term, and

"Whereas the public is confused as to who is their representative account of the long wait a successful candidate has to undergo before he can take office after his election, therefore

"Be and it is hereby resolved by the mayor and general council that the city democratic executive committee of the city of Atlanta be and they are hereby requested not to hold any primary for the city of Atlanta for the officials of same prior to September the first of any year; and that all primaries be held between the first day of September and the first day of November each year."

Judge A. B. Chase To Speak Tonight To Maccabees

BY M. B. GLEASON.

A public reception and entertainment will be held tonight in the Red Men's wigwam by the Georgia tent, No. 3, and women of the Maccabee Hive in honor of Judge Alfred B. Chase, of New York, supreme trustee of the order of Maccabees.

Former Mayor Walter Sims, commander of Georgia tent No. 3, will preside over the meeting and introduce the guests of the evening. J. E. Turner, district great commander of the order, will join Judge Chase in Greensboro, N. C., and remain through the Atlanta program.

Entertainment in honor of the visitors will include numbers by Ralph Richardson and R. E. Leatherman, popular radio entertainers, and others. Past commanders and officers of the Georgia tent and many prominent Atlantans have been invited to attend and meet Judge Chase.

The New York jurist, who has been on the bench in central New York for many years and who is one of the outstanding Maccabees in the country, will meet with local officers sometime during his stay in Atlanta, and confer with them on a proposal to place sufficient money in Atlanta to build a fraternity house for the Maccabees and other orders. The Maccabees, one of the wealthiest orders in the country, already have invested liberally in Atlanta.

Baptist Conference Opens at Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 9.—(AP)—The annual southwide conference of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary will open here tomorrow with delegates from 15 southern states present. The conference will continue through March 21.

Lou Tellegen Weds Katherine Casanova

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 9.—(UN)—Lou Tellegen, actor and former husband of Geraldine Farrar, and Katherine Cassanova, former Ziegfeld Follies girl, were married here this afternoon.

The ceremony took place at the home of Justice of the Peace Martin E. Ferris, who officiated.

Tellegen, who is 48 years old, has been married twice before. A few months after he was divorced from Geraldine Farrar, he married Isable Craven, an actress. They were divorced in 1928 at Los Angeles.

The noted actor was just recently discharged from an Atlantic City hospital, where he had been confined since last December as the result of severe burns he received in a fire at his hotel. He had gone to sleep with a lighted cigarette in his hand and his clothing caught fire.

Miss Casanova has appeared in several dramatic productions in New York, having turned from musical revues to the legitimate stage.

LILA LEE FINDS QUICKEST WAY TO GET RID OF A COLD

Keeps From Spoiling "Talkie" By Cough—Doctors Advised Method Popular Here

Lila Lee is still another, like scores of Hollywood stars, who has taken the advice of physicians and found how quickly colds disappear after a few pleasant doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For in Hollywood, as in hundreds of Atlanta homes, this hospital certified remedy has become the standard treatment for colds.

"The other day," says Lila Lee, "I found that a miserable cold was lowering my vitality. I simply could not put energy into anything I did. And, to make matters worse, I dreaded to stand before the microphone with the full knowledge that the slightest hoarseness, coug.. or sneeze would spoil the picture.

"That evening I started in earnest to get rid of the cold. Every 15 minutes, for nearly three hours, my maid faithfully brought me a half spoonful of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The taste was really tempting and I enjoyed a refreshing night's sleep without being bothered by coughing. In just a day or so I was really surprised to see for myself how quickly Pectoral cleared up my cold."

LILA LEE
Starring in "The Argyle Case," "Hurdy-Gurdy Man" and "Drag."

In Atlanta homes, as in Hollywood, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the first thought for colds. Prescribed by doctors and has been used more throughout the world than any similar product sold by drug stores. Endorsed by Jacobs' Pharmacy and all druggists.

Lose Fat eat 3 times a day . . .

"I Lost 97 Pounds Without Drugs or Disagreeable Diet"

Now a means for gaining fashionable slenderness safely has been found. It is called VITROP, an aid to safe fat reduction.

With it I reduced my own weight from 279 pounds to 182, normal for my height and age. Thousands of others have used it with the same satisfying results.

Now this safe method is available. Obese men and women have turned to it everywhere.

Contains no dangerous thyroid—no gland substance; no drugs of any kind

And exhausting exercises and starvation diets are no longer necessary. VITROP acts to aid natural processes for safe elimination of excess fat on shoulders, arms, hips, legs, stomach and breast. And the deeper seated and more dangerous fat deposits in tissues and around vital organs.

You may lose five pounds or fifty—whatever may be needed to give you the graceful, perfect figure the world today demands. For fat is out of fashion. A fact everyone knows. Once excess fat was thought merely an inconvenience. Now we know it is a menace to health and even life. Be rid of fat. But be safe. Slenderness with glowing health, abounding energy—and without privation. For these benefits the world today turns to VITROP.

The VITROP method is scientific and cannot be explained here. But the full treatment may be yours to try—if you will only clip the special coupon.

Winter Waning As Miss Spring Enters Picture

Miss Spring, the weatherman announced last night after consulting the elements, will be back with us again today. The official forecast is fair and warmer for Monday and for Tuesday still warmer with increasing cloudiness.

Sunday's temperature ranged from the freezing point, recorded quite early, up to a pleasant 50 in the mid-afternoon. It was accompanied, most of the day, by a mild breeze.

Two Dead, Two Dying In Automobile Crash

MOBILE, Ala., March 9.—(AP)—R. A. Gamble, secretary of the Alger Sullivan Lumber Company, and his wife are said to be dying tonight in a hospital at Century, Fla., 62 miles east of here as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident, while two negroes are dead.

A closed car in which the Gambles were riding last night while returning from Pensacola collided with an automobile truck loaded with negroes from a nearby turpentine camp. Two negroes are dead as a result of the collision, one being killed outright and the other expiring today.

A heavy timber on the truck penetrated the windshield of the Gamble car, crushing Mr. Gamble's head and forcing the car into a ditch where it upset.

According to witnesses, the Gamble car had just reached the top of a hill near McDavid, Fla., when the two trucks carrying turpentine workers came over the rise. One of the trucks tried to pass the other and struck the Gamble car, turning it over in the ditch, completely wrecking it.

Miss Mary Best Barwick, who was returning home with the Gambles, was only slightly injured.

Gamble is one of the best known lumbermen in south Alabama and west Florida, and is a brother of Judge A. E. Gamble, of Greenville, Alabama.

Former Local Actor Passes in Pittsburgh

Gus A. Forbes, nationally-known character actor and former member of the Forsyth Players died at a private hospital Sunday in Pittsburgh, Pa. Funeral services are to be held in New York Wednesday.

Mr. Forbes was a popular figure in Atlanta theater circles at one time, having played many engagements at the old Lyric and Forsyth theaters. He was an Englishman by birth but chose the American stage for his career and was always cast in the more difficult character roles. It is understood that he is survived by a number of distant relatives in this city.

What Thrif-T laundry service means at your house

THRIF-T FAMILY WASH service brings all flat work beautifully washed and ironed. Thrif-T washes the other pieces and returns them damp, ready for ironing. Thrif-T saves many a dollar for the woman who wants to iron the easier pieces at home.

You're sure of hospital sanitation in the family wash, for we sterilize every piece—both flat work and wearing apparel. You have the joyful certainty that the wash will come back on time—rain or shine—by a courteous route man.

Thrif-T means saving money:

To help you figure the cost, here are Thrif-T prices for three bundles of average weight:

10-POUND BUNDLE
Consisting of 2 lbs. Flat and 8 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 3 lbs. Flat and 7 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 4 lbs. Flat and 6 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 5 lbs. Flat and 5 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 6 lbs. Flat and 4 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 7 lbs. Flat and 3 lbs. apparel 75c
Consisting of 8 lbs. Flat and 2 lbs. apparel 75c

12-POUND BUNDLE
Consisting of 3 lbs. Flat and 9 lbs. apparel 75c

Flat work means such pieces as sheets, tablecloths, pillow slips, towels, bedspreads. Wearing apparel means such articles as washable dresses, shirts, children's dresses, underwear, stockings.

Five family wash services
One to fit your family:

WET WASH does washing only, but does that perfectly. Every piece washed gently in mild suds and hundreds of gallons of fresh water. Every piece sterilized. The bundle comes back slightly damp, ready for ironing. You can get no finer washing service at any price.

DRY WASH washes every piece, irons flat work and returns wearing apparel dry and ready to iron. (This is sometimes called Rough Dry Service.) The washing is gentle and thorough as in all family wash services. Flat pieces are ironed immaculately.

HO-MESTIC is a low-priced all-ironed service. It washes every piece with greatest care till spotlessly clean and sterilized. The flat work is ironed fine and smooth. The wearing apparel is ironed. Ho-mestic is a practical service for most homes.

PRIM-PREST finishes everything exquisitely. All pieces are washed sweet and clean and sterilized. Then they are carefully ironed by expert hand ironers, who give the daintiest possible finish. In Prim-Prest, laundering is truly a fine art.

Trial of Colquitt Trio To Continue

COLQUITT, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—With court in recess until Monday, indications were that the murder trial here of Joe Albritton, Clarence Bush and Charley Albritton for the slaying of Jeff Davis, Miller county farmer, would continue through Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

When court recessed at noon yesterday, Judge M. J. Yeomans, presiding, dismissed all witnesses and jurors not connected with the murder trial until Thursday. This added to the belief that the trial probably would not be completed until the middle of the week.

The defense offered witness after witness yesterday in an effort to prove an alibi for the indicted men.

MRS. HARRIET HUDGINS SUCCUMBS AT MACON

Dietician at Wesleyan for 23 Years Dies After Several Weeks' Illness.

MACON, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet Hudgings, dietician at Wesleyan college in this city for 23 years, died at 5 o'clock this afternoon after an illness of several weeks. She was born in Salem, Va., and was the widow of Dr. John Hudgings. Upon the latter's death she became dietician at Brenau college and came from there to Wesleyan, when Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, now bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in the Orient, was president of the local college.

When Greater Wesleyan was completed Mrs. Hudgings planned the equipment and had charge of the installation, but shortly after she asked to return to the old college building and continue her work at the conservatory, which occupies the old Wesleyan site. The request was granted and it was there that she died this afternoon.

Mrs. Hudgings entered into the spirit of college life, according to students and members of the faculty, and at holiday periods she arranged many of the successful parties that were given.

Bishop Ainsworth said of her once that "Mrs. Hudgings made the Wesleyan dining room famous throughout the south."

Asked one time how she got along so well with negro servants at the college, she said: "I regard negroes as human beings and treat them as such."

She is survived by three children: Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson, of Macon; Mrs. George Duval, of Chicago, and Mrs. Grace Coile, of Roanoke, Va.; two granddaughters, Harriett Simpson, a student at Brenau college, and Carolyn Simpson, who is younger.

Before her marriage to Dr. John Hudgings, she was Miss Hariett Clark, born near Salem, Va. She resided in Knoxville, Tenn., until the death of her husband and then served as dietician in colleges in Missouri, and at Brenau and Riverside Military academy in Georgia before coming to Wesleyan.

One of her sisters was the wife of Bishop E. E. Hoss, a noted bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, south. A brother, Richard Clark, lives in Dallas, Texas, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Jones, is believed to be in Missouri.

The funeral will be held from the grand parlor of the Conservatory building, the hour to be announced later after relatives have been heard from.

The services will be conducted by Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, Dr. W. F. Quillian and Dr. C. R. Jenkins.

Georgia News In Brief

D. M. Parker to Speak.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 9.—D. M. Parker, of Waycross, will deliver the principal address at a Sunday school rally to be held Sunday, March 23, at Beulah church in Pierce county, leading Sunday school workers of Ware and Pierce counties to be in attendance.

I. T. Sweat, Waycross, president of the Piedmont Sunday School convention, will be in attendance, and other Waycross workers on the program include the Rev. T. W. Callaway, pastor of the Central Baptist church; T. G. Hilliard, Ralph Newton.

Colonel Oglesby Ill.

QUITMAN, Ga., March 9.—Colonel J. W. Oglesby is quite ill at his home in Quitman. As president of the South Georgia railway, chairman of the board of directors of the First National bank and with many interests, he has for a number of years been one of the leading businessmen in this section.

Breaks Leg in Fall.

QUITMAN, Ga., March 9.—Frank L. Chance, well known young businessman, fell from a coal chute while superintending the unloading of a car of coal and was seriously injured. A leg was broken and he suffered bruises and minor injuries which will keep him confined to his bed for several weeks. He and Mrs. Chance were planning to leave for a trip to New York Tuesday.

Injured By Auto.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 10.—(AP)—A. T. Chastain, resident here, was in a hospital today in a critical condition from injuries received last night from a "hit-and-run" driver.

Plan St. Patrick's Day Program.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 9.—(AP) Plans are being perfected for the annual celebration of St. Patrick's Day here.

There will be a parade in the morning on Monday, March 17, in which military and civilians will march through the principal streets of the city. Irish Jasper Greens, now Battery E, 118th field artillery, the Benedictine cadets, the Irish-American Friendly Society, and Ancient Order of Hibernians will be among those in the line of march. The marshal of the parade will be chosen on Wednesday night.

As has been the annual custom, mass will be celebrated at St. Patrick's church prior to the parade. A salute will be fired in Madison square at the monument to Sergeant William Jasper, Irish-American patriot, who fell mortally wounded at the siege of Savannah in the Revolutionary War. Mayor Saussy and the board of aldermen, and members of the Hibernian Society of Savannah will review the parade at a point of vantage.

TAFT'S BROTHER LEAVES AUGUSTA FOR FUNERAL

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—Judge Henry W. Taft, brother of William Howard Taft, and his wife left here today for Washington to attend the funeral of the late chief justice and president. They had been here for the past two weeks on a winter vacation. Judge Taft's home is in New York.

Many personal friends here are mourning the passing of the distinguished statesman who had spent several winter vacations in this city. Mr. Taft made a long stay here immediately after his retirement from the presidency, and upon his arrival was given one of the largest receptions ever accorded a visitor to Augusta.

Decatur Girl Sets Unique Record At State College

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 9.—The most unique occurrence in the annals of the Georgia State College for Women is the record of Miss Margaret Cunningham, of Decatur, who has had the unusual honor of being president of two classes in one year. Miss Cunningham, who was elected last fall as president of the junior class, became a senior at midyears. It also happened that Miss Dorothy Jay, president of the senior class, completed her work at the same time. Miss Cunningham was immediately elected president of the senior class, giving her the phenomenal distinction of heading the two upper classes at the college during the same year. Miss Carolyn Russell, of Atlanta, was elected president of the junior class to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Cunningham.

State Deaths And Funerals

MARTIN DAVIS.

MACON, Ga., March 8.—Martin Davis, 66, who came to this city from Atlanta five months ago, died tonight after an illness of four months. The body will be taken to Lawrenceville, Ga., Sunday morning, where the funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. in Atlanta. Mr. Davis was engaged in construction work.

MRS. P. C. ELKINS.

MACON, Ga., March 8.—Mrs. P. C. Elkins, 81, widow of Paul C. Elkins, died late today at the residence of her son, H. W. Elkins, in this city. She came here several years ago from her birthplace, Savannah.

She had been in declining health for some time, but pneumonia developed Friday, and she rapidly lost strength.

The body will leave here early tomorrow morning for Savannah, where interment will take place. Funeral services were held here tonight, with Dr. C. E. Burts, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

J. PERRY HOBBY.

MACON, Ga., March 9.—J. Perry Hobby, 42, foreman of the twisting room of Bibb Mill No. 1, died suddenly this afternoon shortly after reaching his home after spending the afternoon watching aviators do dare devil stunts at Miller field.

Reaching his home he complained of feeling badly. However, he was able to enter his house and his wife drove over to town for a loaf of bread for their supper. When she returned home her husband was dead.

Mr. Hobby was born and reared in Macon and had been with the Bibb Manufacturing Company for many years.

W. J. GORDY.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., March 9.—W. J. Gordy, 84, Confederate veteran and member of the First Baptist church, died early Saturday morning. His funeral will be held from the residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. He is survived by one son, P. L. Gordy, and one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Stocks, both of Barnesville.

THOMAS LUMPKIN.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., March 9.—Thomas Lumpkin, 74, lifelong citizen of Bartow county, died at his home in Cartersville Saturday morning after a long illness. Funeral services were held from the home on West avenue Sunday afternoon. Pallbearers were Jack J. Hill, Thomas W. Simpson, J. A. Monfort, L. W. Reeves, R. M. Gaines and S. M. Howell. He is survived by his widow and three daughters and three sons. They are Mrs. Felix Jackson, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Edward Strickland, Jr., of Rome, and Miss Roselyn Lumpkin, of Cartersville; Henry Lumpkin, of Oklahoma; Benham Lumpkin, of Philadelphia, and Stuart Lumpkin, of Cartersville.

FUNERAL OF MRS. HOMMOND.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., March 9.—Funeral services for Mrs. J. E. Hammond, 80 years of age, were held Sunday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Candler, on Bartow street, in Cartersville. Horn, of Marietta, and six sisters; three daughters, Mrs. I. J. Howard, and Mrs. H. J. Darnell, of Marietta, and Mrs. E. J. Brooks, of Smyrna; six sons, R. L. Wylie, E. J. Wylie and J. C. Reed, Jr., of Marietta; H. D. Reed, of Atlanta; D. C. Reed, of Marietta, and L. D. Reed, of Smyrna. Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon from the Olive Springs Baptist church, with the Rev. E. V. Crow and the Rev. J. J. Crow officiating.

U. S. OFFICIAL STUDIES PEANUT SITUATION

ATHENS, Ga., March 9.—E. B. Ballow, field representative of the federal farm board, has been here at the Georgia State College of Agriculture for the past week studying, investigating, and discussing the peanut situation, especially as pertaining to the the marketing end of the business.

At the present time, Georgia is the leading state in the production of peanuts, the annual cash value of this crop being approximately $40,000,000. The center of the industry is in the southwestern section of the state.

This survey, made by the federal farm board, is, more or less, to see what kind of organization is needed for the adequate marketing of the commodity. According to Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the agricultural college, it must be a grower-owned co-operative and not operated for profit.

The headquarters of the proposed co-operative is to be at Moultrie, where there is to be held a meeting at an early date to perfect the organization. This movement is being sponsored by civic organizations, railroad agricultural agents, and the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

LEGION AUXILIARY HEA WILL VISIT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Donald McRae, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, will be the guest of the Charles S. Harrison post unit of the auxiliary March 26, it was announced today.

Mrs. McRae will visit Columbus on a tour of several states, in the interest of the national program of the auxiliary.

Mrs. McRae will be accompanied here by Mrs. James Maddox, president of the Georgia auxiliary; Mrs. Frank Fleming, of Augusta, national historian, and Mrs. Robert Calloway, of Rome, state secretary.

FATHER, TWO SONS JAILED IN SLAYING

QUITMAN, Ga., March 9.—Dan Harp, a white renter on the Brice farm in the northern part of the county, and his two sons are held in jail here charged with killing Louis Walker, 42. It is said that the slaying followed a game of cards at Harp's house which lasted all night. Harp said that Walker used profanity and was insulting and provoked the shooting; young Walker says that his father was winning money in the game and that Harp left the room and came back with a gun saying he was going to shoot both the Walkers. Harp will be tried in the May term of court here.

THE HARASSED REPUBLICANS.

The spontaneity with which the democrats in congress and throughout the country are springing to the attack is strikingly indicative of the extent to which the republicans are losing control of congress, and the confidence of the public as a result of the lack of achievement during the first year of the Hoover administration.

Not in many years have the democratic leaders shown such virility and power in their attacks on the policies of the opposing party. Inspired by the evident confusion within the ranks of the G. O. P. leaders, they are overlooking no opportunity to launch telling blows at their already groggy political opponents.

And when it is considered that this spirited attack comes from the same leaders who only a little more than a year ago were crushed under overwhelming defeat, it is all the more significant.

Representative Garner, of Texas, the democratic leader in the house, in a recent statement discussing the legislative situation, said:

"Leadership in the house and the senate by somebody who can and will lead seems imminent in view of the breakdown of administration leadership in the two houses with a resultant demoralized legislative situation.

"Present republican leadership in the house and the senate is at sea and in a mood to surrender in disgust because of utter inability to fathom the mind of the president upon any question of current importance or matter of party policy.

"The titular party leader in the White House is either lacking in courage or capacity to lead and the consequent bewilderment of congressional leadership is a reflection of the deepening disappointment of the American people in the promised and expected major part the president was to play in shaping national affairs to the better ends of national needs."

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, says:

"It is not the democratic party that is arraigning the Hoover administration. It is the events of that administration that themselves indict the republican rule. Could there be a greater demonstration of the baleful effect of trying to please everybody and offend nobody than the spectacle of congress floundering for more than a year in the effort to enact a tariff bill? The democrats in the senate have had to fight the bill in detail at the expenditure of an inordinate length of time that should have been devoted to numerous articles of legislation that the country requires. Had the country been fortunate enough to have the Jefferson type in the White House, the tariff raid would have been checked in its inception. A leader of his party would not have left either congress or the country in doubt as to where he stood, and public opinion would have been sure of a prompt and righteous measure."

The republican leaders, faced with a period of economic depression which has resulted in general unemployment, have been unable to fight back effectively against the attacks of the enspirited democrats.

Hence the confidence of the democratic leaders, and their seemingly justified prophecies that as a result of the congressional elections this year, both for the senate and the house, the republicans are destined to lose control of both bodies.

ARE BOOZE-BUYERS GUILTY?

From Boston there is to go to the supreme court of the United States an appeal by a federal district attorney against the quashing of an indictment against a purchaser of liquor for beverage purposes by Federal Judge Morton.

This will be the first case specifically involving the question whether a person may be criminally prosecuted for a purchase of intoxicating liquor.

It is of widespread importance to have that mooted question settled once for all by the supreme court. Federal district judges have taken opposite views of the question, some ruling that the purchaser is equally guilty with the seller, others that under the law only the seller is subject to prosecution and punishment.

The weight of public opinion is largely with the judges who hold the latter theory of the law and federal grand juries have almost universally ignored efforts to indict individual purchasers of liquor.

Vitally involved in the controversy, which only the supreme court can settle, is the correspondence of the Volstead enforcement act with the amendment it is designed to enforce. A federal decision of long standing is to the effect that—

"A penal act of congress cannot be sustained as an exercise of power to enact 'appropriate legislation' for its enforcement, where the act is broader in its terms than the constitutional provision."—(121 Fed., 250).

If that is a fundamentally correct ruling it covers the case of a purchaser of liquor with protection, because the 18th amendment says nothing that prohibits the purchasing of liquor. The final decision by the supreme court will interest the whole people, both the wets and the drys.

COTTON AND CATTLE.

A recent bulletin of the federal department of agriculture calls attention to the fact that beef cattle and cotton make the best possible combination for the progressive southern farmer.

The department cites that beef cattle are unusually well adapted for using the by-products of cotton and that by growing such legumes as cow peas, soy beans, velvet beans, clover and peanuts, the farmer may not only keep his soil fertile but at the same time produce an abundant amount of food for his beef cattle.

The southern farmer could easily pay all the expenses of his farm by such a program, with the result that when fall comes and he was ready to market his cotton, what he got for it would represent his profit for his year's labors, and not, as is so generally the case now, the difference between prosperity and near-starvation for himself and his family.

There are very few farmers in the south who plant even a medium size farm who has not sufficient acreage in abandoned fields, woodlands or other unimproved land, to care for a herd of beef cattle large enough to give his a balanced output.

According to the department's experts our land is excellent for the raising of beef cattle with the minimum of care. Attention is also called to the fact that the finest type of cattle can be raised in the south, as evidenced by prizes won by southern breeders in competition with breeders from the other sections of the country.

The farmers of no other part of the country are blessed as to soil and climate as are ours, but until they learn the lesson of diversification they will never reap fully of the opportunity that is theirs.

THOSE LIQUOR HEARINGS.

The hearings on prohibition now proceeding before the house judiciary committee are serving the purpose of diverting public attention from the serious things that the congress is refusing to tackle. This is campaign year and the whole 435 members of the house must beg for re-election—so the less they do the less they will have to explain and defend.

Prohibition is now the universal subject of discussion and every congressman thinks he knows what the majority of his constituents think about it, and so he is willing to have prohibition agitated and made the paramount issue of his campaign. If the majority in his district is dry he will be as dry as a powder-horn; if they are wet he will be as wet as ex-Senator Edwards of New Jersey or Mrs. Norton of the Jersey City district.

The hearings are piling up a lot of talking stuff for both wets and drys, and that is the main purpose of them. No one with gumption enough to suck his sore thumb expects them to throw any solving light upon the great baffling puzzle of what to do about prohibition.

About the only certainty suggested is that the country will rock along with liquor getting more plentiful, law enforcement less effective, and the people generally growing increasingly indifferent to what the government does or fails to do in the matter.

It is an unprecedented case of law backed against a dead wall.

The drys say prohibition has saved 10,000 lives a year since its adoption. Many more persons than that saved their lives before prohibition by not drinking liquor. So where is the argument?

A Chattanooga judge orders a lunacy trial for an arrested woman "red" agitator. All the "reds" in the nation are entitled to the like consideration.

Temperance and Prohibition.

The normal progress of temperance education was responsible in Germany for the decline of the sale of schnapps—the German nickname for brandy—by one-half last month compared to the same month last year. This fact made one deputy in the reichstag ask pointedly: "What is the use of prohibition?" when communist an dsocialist urged the introduction of a measure similar to our Volstead act. This phenomenal decline in the sale of hard liquor in the reich, when coupled with an announcement of the police statistics for 1929 in the city of Paris, according to which the total number of people arrested for drunkenness on the public streets amounted to 271 on a population of three and a half million, are facts that ought to be taken into consideration by the furious advocates of "the noble experiment" in the United States. In Finland, a country of high civilization, where they have prohibition, the governor of the province of Nyland, in which Helsingfors is located, declared that the dry regime of the last ten years has proven to be a national disaster. Illicit trading is on the increase, with the usual accompaniment of corruption and bribery. Young people who never would have thought of taking a drink now do so out of bravada, etc., etc. "We were solemnly promised by the dry advocates that prohibition would reduce crime. But the very opposite has taken place. The jails are full to overflowing, we have to build a new one. We also have to build an additional insane asylum." That governor was speaking of Finland, of course.

Barber High Priest.

Those tireless gentlemen who go about digging in the sands of Egypt looking for old tombs are in luck again. They have just opened one, according to a dispatch from Cairo, and a description of what was found inside has caused considerable hilarity in Paris. The tomb in question was that of Ba Ouer, high priest of the goddess Nekhep. An inscription on the entrance furnished a lost of Ba Ouer's accomplishments. He was, it seems, a great priest. When the archaeologists entered the first chamber of the tomb they came upon two mummies and a whole store of golden ornaments. The mummy of the high priest was thought to lie in the second chamber. But when this room was opened nothing was found but a collection of razors, all in good condition. Ba Ouer himself, however, must be in the chamber, beyond, the third one. What the idea of burying razors with a high priest? It appears that Ba Ouer acted as barber to the king in addition to being pontiff in the temple of Nekhep. In the morning he shaved Pharoah, in the afternoon he performed a quite different ceremony. It does not appear which of the two was his main or major occupation and which the side line. Paris chroniclers, who never let a chance go by to josh the clergy a little, think that they have discovered the origins of auricular confession. While the priest shaved, the king confessed. This may be all right, but when a man gets shaved, be he the king of Egypt, he can't talk a lot. Now if it was only the other way around.

UNDULANT FEVER AND RAW MILK.

In and about Dayton, Ohio, 63 cases of undulant fever have occurred in 1929, and in every case where the probable source of infection was evident the patient had been a consumer of raw milk or of unpasteurized dairy products. This by no means condemns raw milk. Certainly it would not make me hesitate to consume raw, unpasteurized milk if I lived in Dayton and could get good raw milk. If 63 persons in and around Dayton were able to have unpasteurized milk or other dairy products in 1928 it is quite probable that at least a hundred times as many persons there were consumers of raw milk and unpasteurized butter, cream and cheese, too, so you see the fact that 63 individuals had undulant fever is not of much significance. It would be quite as logical to conclude that, since all of the 63 victims of undulant fever had admitted that they had been consumers of toothpaste or shoe polish, every one should stop polishing his teeth and cleaning his shoes.

The sudden recognition of undulant fever (also known as Malta fever, Mediterranean fever, Gibraltar fever, dust fever) in widely scattered places in the United States in the past year does not mean that it is a new disease here. It simply means that doctors have only lately learned to diagnose it. It has been confused and still is confused with typhoid fever, malaria, influenza and tuberculosis. Even now there is no dependable scientific diagnostic test for this disease, comparable with the Widal test for typhoid, or the finding of the parasites in the red corpuscles in malaria. The specific causative germ of undulant fever is known, and the bacteriologists are able to isolate it (Brucella abortus) from the blood of the patient in many cases, but it seems there are some very similar germs that are sometimes present and though not of serious significance they complicate the test.

The illness, in man, is called undulant fever because of its characteristic course, especially periods of days with little or no fever, then another run of fever and this goes on three months in most cases, or for a year or more in others. Chills and sweats are common in the earlier stages of the fever, and this probably suggests "influenza" or "malaria" or "tuberculosis." In seven of the Dayton cases the principal complaint in the beginning was joint pains, which led to the suspicion of acute infectious arthritis (rheumatic fever, inflammatory rheumatism). In cattle the infection (Brucella abortus) causes what is known as contagious abortion, and there is some evidence that it may be the cause of repeated abortion in certain instances in man.

In more than a third of the Dayton cases the correct diagnosis was made by physicians from the clinical manifestations of the illness before confirmation by bacteriological tests.

In some cases of undulant fever, where the patient complains of abdominal pain, there is danger of appendectomy. This happened in three cases in Dayton. In one case a gangrenous appendix was found; in the other two the surgeons found a normal appendix, then called for blood tests.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

Is Our State Army of Illiterates Our Calamity or Our Shame?

To my imagination it seems a terrible thing to have a mind imprisoned for life and an untrained brain.

A human spirit thus enmeshed in a ganglia of gray matter and nerves that have had no education, and can absorb no uplifting inspiration, and feel no urgent ambition, is a subject for the acutest pity.

Well, we have here in "good old Georgia" just 328,838 creatures of God in human form who are practically in that dungeon condition. Of that big army of illiterates who cannot read a "Danger" or "Live Wire" sign, or the guide signs on a public highway, 66,796 are native white persons, 861 are foreign-born whites, and 261,115 are negroes. The percentage in the state is 15.3, to our ill repute.

* * * *

Yes, We're a Backward State.

Very recently when old Joe Grundy, the Pennsylvania tariff vulture, classified Georgia among the "backward states" economically, we just naturally riz up on our 'hind legs, hung our religion on the fence temporarily and cussed him from forelock to fetlock.

But when the census bureau publishes to the universe that Georgia stands 43 from the top of the roll of 48 states in total percentage of illiteracy and fortieth from the top in percentage of native white illiterates, our cussin' mechanism jams and we stand back mute and ashamed.

When charged with the inhumanity of allowing ourselves to have such conditions we can offer no valid defense; we simply have to plead "nolo contendere" and accept the verdict that we are one of the backward states in America in the matter of popular literacy.

* * * *

Why We Should Be Ashamed.

We have here in "proud old Georgia" more native white illiterates who cannot read and write than the total of all classes of illiterates in the nine states of Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Vermont. We have 66,796 of them and those states have only 63,534 of all kinds, native, foreign and colored.

And we have more illiterates than California, Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire and Montana all put together, and that conspicuous fact ought to make us very proud of ourselves.

When Massachusetts boasts of her public schools "for every child," and Ohio shows the best working system of common schools in the Union, and Wisconsin claims the most practical university in the western hemisphere, Georgia can reply that she comes near to holding the civilized world's record in the production of mental dumbbells!

* * * *

The Colored Child Problem.

No one needs to be told that our heavy percentage of illiteracy is due to the presence in our population of a 40 per cent constituency of negroes. The writer has weighed that fact from the beginning of our common school system 60 years ago. That population has been a heavy drag upon our ability to support an equitable system because of its thriftlessness, its low economic earnings, its lack of taxpaying power and its too general proneness, even need, to put its children to labor instead of to learning the rudiments of a simple education.

But after writing up all that the solemn fact remains that we white people have not wanted the negroes to become educated; because the costs of their school instruction falls almost wholly upon the taxes of the white people and because we have harbored the mean notion that to educate a negro even in the "three R's" will be to bring him into stronger competition with the whites of the population. That is plain, unvarnished truth.

* * * *

The Darkness Is Rural.

This incubus of mental darkness exists most largely in the rural areas of the state. Of the 328,838 Georgia illiterates (census of 1920) the five cities, Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah, had only 30,829, of which 11,031 were in Atlanta. The five counties in which those cities exist had only 42,184 all told.

The seven cities, Albany, Athens, Brunswick, LaGrange, Rome, Valdosta and Waycross, with populations from 10,000 to 25,000 had 9,465 all put together, and 47 cities with populations from 2,500 to 10,000 had a total of 16,071.

Thus the 59 cities contained only 56,365 of the 328,838 total illiterates of the state.

Those very interesting facts may account for why the state habitually gets the kinds of legislators who come to the capitol in a large and messing-up majority!

* * * *

Getting Out of the Woods.

But State Superintendent Duggan, whose industry in the common schools interest gives odds to any boss-beaver on a dam-building job, assures me that the crusade he started to wipe out as much of Georgia illiteracy as possible before the census of this year is registered, in receiving extraordinary sympathy and financial aid throughout the state. Glory be! That is news of the most heartening character.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur has invited Jere Wells, Fulton county superintendent of schools, to join and co-operate with the national advisory board for the elimination of illiteracy. Of course Superintendent Wells will diligently do all he can to rid this county of its more than 13,000 illiterates.

Every Georgian who is educated enough to read this article should take a personal and patriotic interest in the pending campaign to chase illiteracy out of the record of the beloved state.

GRAFTERS FLAYED BY DR. BROUGHTON

Text of Sermon.

The sermon, in part, follows:

"We have stated in our text the order as well as the obligation of Christian honestry. Zacchaeus was a real robber-grafting politician. His chief business was obtaining rake-offs from men who had to do with the affairs of his community. From this source he had grown immensely rich. He was, however, a highly respected citizen, though a known grafter. Such is generally the case. It seems to make little difference with a lot of people how one gets his money, so he gets it and keeps it. With Zacchaeus it was not so after he was converted to Christ. He then at once went to work to straighten out his affairs.

"The first thing he did was to give one-half of his goods to the poor, and the second thing was to restore four-fold to every man from whom he had gotten anything by unjust or clandestine methods. Generosity in his case preceded the restoration of ill-gotten gains. It is generally so. Christian generosity leads to Christian honesty.

"The study of Zacchaeus is very suggestive when we attempt an honest solution of Atlanta's present civic problems. The fact is the ethic of Jesus furnishes us with the best road to right living that the world has ever known. It is not in any sense an out-of-date idealism of a dreamer, but a strictly up-to-date, workable way for the betterment of self and the world.

Work of Grand Jury.

"This brings us to what we want to say concerning the recent investigations and deliverances by the grand jury of those regarded to be of the Zacchaeus type before Christ touched their lives so.

"Carlyle, the great historian, once said with reference to our American republic: 'If the American republic ever goes down it will be because of the corruption of her cities.'

"Now if he was right in holding that our cities would determine the weal or woe of our republic, then as a republic we face our doom unless something is done to remedy our situation in the cities of our country.

"In the early days the country furnished the culture and the wealth of America, but with the beginning of our republic cities began to spring up almost overnight; and the close contact of our people brought about by city life, and the enormous amount of work demanded to develop the city, gave birth to a form of politics peculiar to such conditions of life. Largely, what we call political graft is the product of our cities. Men and women find it hard to stand up against the almost unhindered opportunities for getting other people's money. Our forms of city government, generally speaking, have in them the germ of all sorts of corruption.

"This Carlyle, the great historian, saw long ago; and today we are realizing it right here in Atlanta, the hub of the great old south. It has taken us a good while to see it; but now we see it as a great serpent with its poisonous fangs fastened upon us in such a way that it is hard for us to get rid of it. Unquestionably we are living in a day when it is no disgrace to be a robber-grafter—at least with our political class. It is a thing so common in many quarters as not to create a blush.

Indictments "Shocking."

"The horrible revelation made in the indictments of our city fathers in Atlanta, and heads of departments and other trusted employes by the grand jury, a week ago, is nothing short of shocking in the extreme. It is not for us to say where there is guilt. Our business is to call attention to the horrible pollution of our moral atmosphere by the revelations that have been made. Enough has already been brought to light to shake to the foundation the confidence of our people in trusted servants, including our present form of government. Say what we may about it, law, justice and honesty have had a setback from which it will take us a long time to recover; and still they say the worst is not yet.

"But some are saying, what have you, a minister, to do with robbers and grafters in the city government? I answer, 'Everything.' A minister's business in no small measure is the creation and maintenance of a healthy atmosphere in which to grow men and women for the future. In doing this the minister who is faithful to his ministry must take a hand in everything that has to do with strength and character. Politics goes a long way in the creation of a proper atmosphere in which to grow character. That is why I am interested in politics, and it is why I am interested in this particular situation. I stand as a champion of our boys and girls, and I challenge the right of any politician to so maneuver his office as to fix upon our people that which will degrade the moral, religous and social atmosphere.

"What do these indictments and criticisms reveal?

Getting of Contracts.

"If they reveal anything at all they reveal the fact that it is almost, if not altogether, impossible in certain departments of government to get a contract for a piece of work without the contractor handing back to the official a personal rake-off. Some say there is no law against such conduct. I am not a lawyer, but I do not believe one whit of it. If Georgia has been asleep to this extent all these years, then she deserves the highest form of criticism. The fact is, there is abundant law to cover such conduct. We call such rake-offs 'graft,' but it is nothing short of robbery. It is on a par with the high-jackers that infest our highways.

"There are three words intended to convey different meanings, when as a matter of fact they mean to cover the same infamous deeds. They are graft, embezzlement, and robbery. If a highwayman holds up another and takes what he has, we call it robbery; if a banker takes the bank's money for himself, we call it embezzlement; if a politician so maneuvers his office as to get money for himself that belongs to the public, we call it graft. But never mind what we call it, it is in every instance taking that which belongs to someone else, and is, therefore, simple stealing. Mind you, I am not fixing guilt. That is for the court; what I am doing is for the purpose of putting a stop to what has already been revealed in so far as the influence of my pulpit may reach.

"What a terrible example for the youth of our community we present today in the government of Atlanta. There is hardly a schoolboy that is not talking it. The example in itself is death-dealing to that which is highest and best for the future, to say nothing of the actual crime involved. And think of it! Atlanta, it is said, has become the hotbed for this form of old Tammany Hall political filth! And I say to you that honest people are tired of being controlled by that kind of backyard politics. Boss Tweed, of Tammany Hall fame, in the heyday of his graft form of theft, was never more diabolical in principle than what we are faced with in Atlanta today. The graft business in the city council is not all of it. Let the probe go on and go deeper; let the whole of our government be gone into, and no doubt there will be much more to follow.

Vindication Deserved.

"We have good men in office who will welcome such a thorough probe. They deserve vindication as well as the guilty deserve criticism and conviction. Our plea is that the probe be not held back now that it has once started. This is what the people demand.

"The greatest calamity in the present revelation is the involvement of our public schools. For the last six months we have been harangued about public school mismanagement. The public knows that there is something wrong there, and it thinks it knows what it is; moreover, the board of education knows it, but there seems to be no way to get rid of it. The board of education is not a free body. The council holds its hand upon it through its appropriations, and so long as that is true we are going to have two heads bumping up against each other, and each clamoring for the mastery. It is an absurd situation. Even our boys and girls in school have little respect, at the present, for our school management. That there has been gross extravagance in connection with it, everybody believes; and yet the public is defied if it even offers a suggestion to remedy the situation. It is high time that the board of education addresses itself to the criticisms on this line offered by the grand jury.

"The question is, what are we to do in a general way to improve the present situation? It seems to me to be perfectly clear that the present form of government has got to be changed if we are ever to even put a curb upon this grafting business. At present we have 13 wards in the city, and each ward has two councilmen and one alderman. The astounding fact is that the councilmen have to be nominated and voted upon only in and by their own wards, each ward selecting its own councilmen. These 26 councilmen get together and put over any kind of scheme they like. They can involve every ward alike in this vote trading business. In my ward, for example, I am held responsible for any dirty graft deed that may be pulled off by the man in the ward next to me in collusion with his fellow councilmen. The aldermen are nominated and elected by the city at large hence it is not from them that we have our greatest trouble.

Fewer Officials Needed.

"Now listen to me, when I say to you that we will never even check this graft business until we at least reduce the number of councilmen to one-half; that is, one from each ward; and have them nominated and elected by the city at large. Then they are amenable to the whole city and feel it. The school board should be entirely divorced from the city council, and elected in the same way that we should elect councilmen and aldermen. If we will take this step we will find that the day of such notorious advertising as Atlanta is now getting is to a great extent passed. It began when the present form of city government went into effect, and it will last as long as it continues.

"Atlanta has got to get rid of the ward politician as a law-maker and manager of her business affairs. The movement has now begun, and it should not stop. It may take severe means to put it across, but if nothing else will accomplish it, let the severe means come, and the quicker the better.

"Christ stood in the temple with whip thong in His hand and drove out the grafters that were there. His resentment of this kind of traffic could no longer be suppressed. Hence we have this picture of the Prince of Peace standing in the midst of men who were fleecing their fellows, with a whip in hand, cleansing the temple of their greedy injustice. The time has come when Atlanta's spirit must likewise assert itself, and clean up the political life of our city."

'Everybody's Business'

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.

J. F. Sartori, Los Angeles Banker, Believes Stock Crash Readjustment Will Be Rapid—Chicago Not So Bad Financially—Unemployment Situation Believed Serious.

J. F. Sartori, Los Angeles banker, is inclined to believe that the readjustments following the stock market drop were so drastic that the worst is over, and that a return to a favorable situation will be more rapid than was at first expected.

"The most prevalent spirit existing in the various lines of business here is one of caution," said this Iowa-born California banker. "It is a spirit not so much of anticipation of a further-falling off but rather of a feeling of inability to plan for the future. As it becomes clearer that the public's reaction to the situation is not going to be nearly as drastic as was anticipated and as, in fact, the public itself rapidly adjusts its frame of mind to the present, I believe this spirit of caution will fade and renewed activity will begin."

The Hoover pronouncement last week, expecting a strong business rise within sixty days, should help, especially the psychological factor which, as this Los Angeles banker says, "to a large extent is governing the existing situation. A rapid restoration of confidence will mean a rapid improvement in business. If the spirit of caution lingers, business will take longer to improve."

Chicago, "the terrible example," is not so bad financially, even if it is the world's most maligned city.

Financially, the Illinois metropolis is embarrassed but not bankrupt. There's a vast difference. When its reassessment dragged on twice as long as the time estimated, the city was hog-tied and forced to issue so-called tax anticipation warrants for pay day.

Chicago found itself in the position of any sound business which at the moment is not able to collect its just debts. For two years now not a dollar has been paid into the treasury of Cook county or the city. So tax-anticipation warrants allow the city to function until the reassessment is completed and the 1928 and 1929 taxes are collected.

Chicago, including Cook county, has about $300,000,000 in bonded indebtedness. What has it got to secure this debt? More than $10,000,000,000 in real estate valuation. Chicago owes 3 per cent of what her visible realty assets are worth. Is that terrible? Hardly.

Put it another way! Chicago has a funded debt of $95 per capita, as against $245 per capita for New York, and $201 per capita for Philadelphia. Her per capita debt is less than is found in Buffalo, Newark, Baltimore, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Detroit and a score of other prosperous American cities.

Recently the Detroit bureau of government research made a study of the situation and found that not only in per capita debt was Chicago lower than either Philadelphia and New York, but in the ratio of its net debt to actual valuation it was very much lower. Chicago has 3 per cent of a net debt, New York 7.6 per cent, and Philadelphia 8 per cent.

Then why all the adverse publicity? Let Rufus C. Dawes, well-known Chicago financier, answer:

"Chicago is not a city that hides its light under a bushel. It does not even attempt to conceal its faults. Chicago openly admits its sinful state. This has become a settled policy and there is merit in it, for the conviction of sin is the first step toward repentance."

Would It Be Moral To Burn a Forest For the Fun of Watching the Fire?

By Robert Quillen

In Asia there are devout religionists who will not kill birds or animals or insects—not even the vermin that infest their own bodies.

In Nordic countries there are millions of men who delight in killing birds and animals in the name of sport.

Between these two extremes there is a humane and reasonable course justified by nature and by common sense.

The small boy, though apparently cruel by nature, is conscience-stricken when first he kills a bird; yet when hypocritical adults remind him that the bird's right to live is no less than his own, his logical mind wonders why cattle and chickens and flies are denied an equal right.

If adults were equally logical and sincere and consistent, they would be unable to justify wanton butchery.

When Arabs refused to kill a wounded camel left behind on the desert, they said to the Englishman in their party: "If you were in the camel's place, would you ask to be shot or cling to life as long as possible?"

When men kill animals "to end their misery," how much of their motive is a spirit of mercy and how much of it an unwillingness to nurse mere brutes as they would wounded men?

To think honestly is to realize that life must be as precious to other creatures as it is to men, for all of them fight and struggle desperately to preserve themselves.

All civilized men concede that it is wrong to kill one another, and none could find pleasure in shooting horses or dogs.

Then by what logic can they justify the wanton killing of other creatures equally intelligent?

And if the victim's intelligence or lack of it makes his assassination immoral or moral, is man justified in hunting his imbecile brothers?

Or, if one killing is justified and another evil, how shall man discover where the line is drawn?

The answer must be found in the plan of nature, for the way made necessary by nature is the right and moral way.

Since nature provides one creature as food for another, killing to satisfy hunger is no more evil than the eating of grass.

And this same natural necessity is the measure by which man must justify the destruction of life.

When he kills to provide food or to destroy enemies that threaten him, he obeys the rules of natural morality.

When he kills for the lust and joy of killing—as no other creature does—he is like a rich man who steals a beggar's one poor treasure without other purpose than to display his superior strength.

TREASURY DEFICIT IS FACING HOOVER

tax reduction and the $100,000,000 additional for the farm board, wipe out the surplus and leave a deficit of approximately $120,000,000.

No Predictions.

Treasury officials have declined to predict the total of the March income tax payments but they hope that they will be large enough to prevent a deficit. If the collections are greater than last year, they will take it as an indication that the June payments also will be larger than those of last June and that the threat to a balanced budget will have been removed.

The treasury has estimated that expenditures this year would total $4,023,000,000 and that receipts would amount to $4,249,000,000. For the first eight months of the year up to March 4 expenditures amounted to $2,606,000,000, while receipts totaled only $2,388,000,000, leaving a present deficit of $217,000,000, which will be wiped out by the income tax receipts this month.

Treasury officials also have another worry from the standpoint of revenue. Customs receipts have declined $16,000,000 in the first eight months of the fiscal year as compared with the previous year and on March 4 totaled $400,652,000. Miscellaneous tax receipts, however, have shown an increase of $19,000,000, totaling $422,000,000.

While the income taxes for the first quarter must be paid by midnight next Saturday it will be toward the end of the month before they are tabulated sufficiently to give an indication of what the total will be.

NEW TRUE BILLS EXPECTED TODAY

inquiry into the activities of all the leading departments of the city government and a thorough investigation of the actions of all individuals linked in the alleged intrigue.

Assistant Solicitor-General Ed A. Stephens said Sunday night that plans for the trial of York, Price and White were practically complete and await only the approval of Solicitor-General Boykin before the state's prosecuting staff appears in Judge Humphries' court and announces it is ready for trial. More than 150 prospective jurors have been summoned and a special panel is to be drawn this week for any emergency which may arise or in the event that the prosecutors and defense counsel are unable to complete a jury from the original venire.

"All of our witnesses have been summoned and will be in court on March 18," Mr. Stephens said. "We have heard of no plans for an appeal for delay on the part of the defense. The first of the graft cases undoubtedly will go to trial on the day scheduled."

NATION PAYS TAFT HIGHEST HONORS

a bust of Associate Justice Harlan Stone.

The day was one of sparkling sunshine and a long procession of visitors called at the Taft home. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson came during the morning. There were representatives of the embassies and members of Washington's official circles. Charles MacVeath, former ambassador to Japan; Senator Fess, republican, Ohio; Mrs. Dolly E. Gann, and Speaker Longworth, of the house, were among the distinguished callers.

Numerous automobiles traveled through the quiet Wyoming avenue, their passengers looking curiously at the Taft home as they passed. The day was so pleasant that many pedestrians walked through the avenue, standing in little groups before the Taft home.

Full Military Funeral.

From daybreak tomorrow until the body has been lowered into its grave all American military posts will honor the ex-president with frequent gun salutes.

President and Mrs. Hoover will attend the services at the church and accompany the body to Arlington cemetery. It was understood former President and Mrs. Coolidge also would come here from New York to attend the funeral.

The services will be held under full military honors.

A squadron of cavalry with a caisson will bear the body from the Taft home to the capitol where it will lie in state in the rotunda from 9 a. m., until 12 noon Tuesday. Four noncommissioned men of the army and four of the navy will lift the flag-draped casket from its caisson at the capitol and carry it up the steps into the building. Twenty army, 10 navy and 10 marine corps enlisted men will be detailed to the capitol as a squad of honor.

At noon a full military escort made up of detachments from surrounding posts, war veterans, and others will parade down Pennsylvania avenue and thence to All Souls Unitarian church.

Presidential Salute.

After the services which will be held at 2 p. m., the body will be taken across the Potomac river to Ft. Myer, Va., where another military escort will accompany the procession to the grave. From the time the services are over at the church until the body is placed in the grave, every United States army post throughout the world will fire one salute every minute. A 21-gun salute will be fired by cannon at Ft. Myer when the procession enters the reservation, in recognition of Mr. Taft's service as president. Throughout Monday, following a 13-gun salut, at reville, every post will fire a gun each half hour.

The justices of the supreme court, with whom he acted faithfully, will act as honorary pallbearers.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company obtained permission from Robert Taft to describe the funeral procession and services in the capitol. All details of the proceedings will be carried over a coast-to-coast network and to Canada and England by short wave length stations.

Notables Pay Respects.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon called at dusk at the Taft home. He drove up in his automobile but after stopping a moment at the home dismissed his car and walked away briskly toward his home.

Other visitors of the day included: Associate Justices Stone and McReynolds, and Senators Phipps and Waterman, of Colorado.

Dr. Francis Hagner and Dr. Thomas Claytor called during the day and reported Mrs. Taft was bearing up well under the strain of her bereavement.

Miss Gertrude Manifold, who acted as day nurse during Mr. Taft's long illness and attended him when he sought recuperation in Asheville, N. C., just before his resignation from the supreme court, gave similar report on Mrs. Taft's condition.

"Yes, I'm leaving," she said, "and it's a sad departure."

Colonel Campbell Hodges, military aide to President Hoover, returned to the Taft home at 5:30 p. m. for the conference with members of the family regarding the final funeral arrangements.

Sightseeing busses came by during the afternoon and it seemed that all in Washington who had no pressing engagements came past the Taft home.

DR. COOK LEAVES FEDERAL PRISON

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 9. (AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, physician explorer, was released on parole from the federal penitentiary here this afternoon.

This morning Dr. Cook was number 23,118, night interne in the prison hospital. Tonight he was a free man of science and medicine with his immediate plans dedicated to a study of a cure for narcotic degeneration. His 65 years weighed lightly on his shoulders and his will was set in support of his claims of discovery of the north pole in 1908.

Prison has meant five years' of study, of nights filled with calls for aid from suffering prisoners, but also a period of rest for the explorer.

He came to Leavenworth penitentiary from Fort Worth, Texas, where he was sentenced to a 14-year, nine-month term for using the mails to defraud in connection with an oil promotion scheme. He had served nearly five years of this sentence.

Ruddy Faced, Healthy.

Today, admitting that he had decided not to eat immediately the large beef steak his mind had conjured, he said he was feeling fit but "not hungry." He weighed approximately the same as when he was "dressed in" at the prison. His cheeks were ruddy. Streaks of grey in his heavy dark hair were not pronounced.

Attired in a light blue suit, a soft white shirt and well worn shoes, Dr. Cook smiled at interviewers and said he was going to Chicago.

There he expects to study and work toward creation of a new science which he called "cellular therapy." His study would be aimed, he said, at a "better understanding of the anatomy, physiology and pathology of all the cells of the body."

Such study, he believed, is necessary before physicians can cope with narcotic degeneration.

"For five years," he said, "I have lived in close contact with an average of one thousand of the worst narcotic addicts the world produces. They taught me more than I was able to teach them."

Will Live In Texas.

Dr. Cook expects to be associated in Chicago with Dr. F. F. Thompson, a life long friend and fellow explorer. The ex-prisoner was paroled to Dr. Thompson, who will act as "first friend" and forward monthly reports of Dr. Cook's activities to the prison warden. Later the paroled man expects to go to Texas to live, perhaps first visiting in New York.

Facing a battery of newspaper cameras and then being questioned concerning his prison activities, Dr. Cook exhibited little of the influence of the "jungle," as he referred to the prison. His actions were not those of a confused old man, bewildered by the developments of the age.

Despite his attitude, Dr. Cook said: "Coming from the jungle of penaldom, we must for sometime feel like wild animals who have lost their way. But every jungle gives power and fitness to the life which it feeds. This peculiar energy may not harmonize with civil rule, but it is an energy which will survive against all opposition. About five hundred thousand men and women go into this jungle every year."

Ample Diversion Offered Good-Will Party to Cuba

Final Details of Elaborate Entertainment Program Arranged, Local Sponsors of Tour Hear.

Final details of a royal reception and entertainment program which awaits the good-will party from Atlanta and other Georgia and Florida cities on its arrival in Havana Monday, March 17, were contained in a cable received Sunday by officers of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club, sponsors of the tour.

In addition to an elaborate program of sight-seeing, previously announced, the tour party will be welcomed on its arrival by the Cuban army cadets in full regalia, prominent citizens and high government officials of Cuba. A special contingent of the Havana police and fire departments, accompanied by bands, will form an honorary escort to convey the party through the streets of Havana to the president's palace, where they will be formally received by General Machado.

At 9 p. m. cars will be waiting to take the party to Havana's most famous night club, Chateau Madrid, said to be one of the most luxuriously appointed in the world. The club is located several miles beyond the city limits on the new central highway to Pinar del Rio and the drive will be a delightful trip through a tropical rural section by moonlight. An elaborate dinner and dance have been arranged for the visitors at the club, where they will be guests of the Cuban National Tourist Commission.

Trip Through Capitol.

Tuesday there will be a trip through the new capitol and a visit to the Toledo Sugar mill, in full operation, grinding this season's crop. Luncheon will be served at the noted Polar Gardens, the party being guests of Senor Emeterio Zorilla, prominent Havana citizen. The afternoon will be spent at the Central American Olympic games where 14 nations will be represented by their champions in numerous athletic events.

The governor of Havana province, Dr. Antonia Ruiz, will give a tendance in honor of the Georgians and Floridians Tuesday evening at the edge of the Caribbean sea southwest of Havana.

Wednesday morning will be devoted to a sightseeking tour to places of historic interest, including the University of Havana and Havana institute.

At noon the party will be guests of President Machado at a luncheon to be served in General Machado City, following which they will be escorted through the industrial school, the Cuban aviation school and the various factories which comprise Havana's new industrial city.

Jai-Alai Exhibition.

Wednesday they will witness a jai-alai contest at the noted Fronton. This is Cuba's national sport and is said to be the fastest game known.

Thursday morning will be left free for shopping by the ladies and business conferences by the men, a large number of whom are making the trip expressly for the purpose of obtaining a first-hand view of the Cuban trade possibilities in their various lines of business. At 3 o'clock there will be another visit to the stadium to view the Olympic games.

The final event will be a magnificent dinner and dance for the tour party, given by the mayor of Havana, Dr. Miguel Mariano Gomez, on the roof of Hotel Plaza.

The party will depart from Havana the following morning at 10:30 o'clock.

7 Stolen Cars Found in Day; Man Arrested

In the very shadow of Fulton tower, Detectives George Barrett and L. H. Satterfield, of the auto theft squad, Sunday afternoon recovered their seventh stolen automobile for the day, a feat which later resulted in the arrest and alleged confession of Alton Jackson, 20, of 217 Williams street.

The two officers reported that they were driving down Butler street by the Fulton tower when they observed a car which bore the license number of an auto reported stolen from the corner of Hunter and Whitehall streets Saturday night, from Clyde W. Barge, of 1015 Woodland avenue, S. E.

The captured car was being driven by Miss Velma Franklin, 16, of 217 Hunter street, S. E. She was accompanied by Mrs. Nellie Nathan and Mrs. A. Black, of the same address; Tom Reed and Jesse Luckie, of 325 Fair street, S. E., and five children. All expressed ignorance that the car was stolen, Miss Franklin stating that it had been loaned to her by Alton Jackson.

Jackson was arrested and, according to the officers, admitted the theft. He was held on suspicion and ordered taken before the grand jury Tuesday.

The recovery of this car made the seventh stolen automobile to be recovered by the two detectives Sunday, closely approaching their record of 10 recovered in one day, made some months ago. They have recovered 37 during the month of March so far, 93 during February and 108 during January.

DELEGATES ELECTED TO LABOR GATHERING

Still, Simons and Jones Will Represent Local Typographical Union.

Luther Still, of The Constitution, George Simons, of The Georgia and Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor, were unanimously elected as delegates to represent the Atlanta Typographical Union at the annual meeting of the Georgia Federation of Labor to be held in Waycross on April 17.

The Atlanta Typographical Union numbers about 400 printing trades employes. In addition to the election of three delegates, the regular monthly meeting Sunday afternoon, held in the Labor temple, transacted routine business.

Distinguished Dane Dies of Pneumonia

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Prince Fitszavilhelm Holm, 48, Danish explorer, journalist and diplomat, died today at the St. Regis hotel of pneumonia.

He was born in Charlottenlund, Denmark, educated in private and government schools and in his youth served in the royal Danish navy.

The prince entered the journalistic field in the far east, serving in Europe in 1901. He commanded the Holm-Nestorian expedition to Sian-Fu in 1907-1908, bringing out from the far interior of north west China, a two-ton replica of the famed Nestorian monument of A. D. 781, which was part of the China exhibit in the Metropolitan museum, 1908-1916, and is now in the Lateran in Rome.

In 1916 and 1917 he was a member of a mission to the Vatican, later he was an American war correspondent in northern Europe. He was brevet-ed lieutenant-general in 1919. In 1921 he was envoy extraordinary of San Marino at the inauguration of President Harding. He was honorary professor under the Mexican government in 1923, and later chamberlain to his royal highness, the count of Caserta.

In 1919 in New York he married Marguerite, lady of grace of the Constantinian order, a daughter of W. L. Green, president of the American Banknote Company. She died in Paris a year ago.

Just before the prince died he was visited by his cousin, George Peabody Converse and Mrs. Converse, who is Anita Stewart on the screen. These are his only known relatives.

3 Persons Injured When Autos Crash

Mrs. H. M. Blanchard, wife of an Atlanta mortician, received probable serious internal injuries, her small son was injured slightly and Ralph Tinsley, of 387 Boulevard, S. E., suffered minor bruises about the head late Sunday night when a motor car Mrs. Blanchard was driving, was struck in front of Blanchard Brothers Funeral Home, at 1088 Peachtree street, by another auto driven by C. T. Johnson, 387 Boulevard, S. E., with whom Tinsley was riding, according to a police report. Mrs. Blanchard and her son were placed under the care of their family physician, while Tinsley was treated at a private hospital and dismissed. No charges were made against the drivers by investigating Patrolmen Robert Floyd and R. L. Mosley.

Champion Typist Visitor in Atlanta

Albert Tangora, of Paterson, N. J., four times world's champion typist, will give the first of a series of speed demonstrations at Draughon's Business college at 10 o'clock this morning, and probably will appear at other business schools and large business establishments during a three-day visit to Atlanta.

Mr. Tangora, who has a speed record of 132 net words per minute, stopped over here en route to Miami and Havana. Later he will make a demonstration trip to Europe.

PINCHOT WILL MAKE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(AP) Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, announced here tonight that he would be a candidate for the governorship at the republican primary election in May.

Mr. Pinchot issued a statement saying in part:

"I am a candidate for governor in the coming republican primary. I want to help break the strangle hold of the electric, gas, water, trolley, bus and other monopolies on the cost of living and the government of this state.

"Two factions of the republican machine are striving for control, each for its own advantage. The people of Pennsylvania ought to have someone to vote for who is not for any faction but for them.

"The fight for common justice against machines and monopolies is the kind of a fight I like. I went into it with Roosevelt and have been in it ever since.

"The issues involved will appear in my platform. I ask every Pennsylvania voter, man or woman, who believes in a Roosevelt square deal to help me finish the work for the people my first term began."

GROUP WILL CONSIDER SCHOOL BUDGET TODAY

Preliminary steps towards completion of a budget for operating the Atlanta school system for 1930, will be taken at a special meeting of the current expenditure committee of the Atlanta board of education at the new city hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced Sunday by W. W. Gaines, chairman.

The committee will be faced with the problem of slashing $500,000 from the initial budget submitted to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale at the first of the year and vetoed by him.

Only $3,185,000 has been allocated for the operation and maintenance of the system for 1930. This sum, administration officials and board members declare, is insufficient to meet actual pay rolls of employes.

The committee will act this afternoon in an effort to prepare a finance sheet to be submitted to the board at its March meeting at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

New features of the FORD TRUCK

NEW SPIRAL BEVEL GEAR REAR AXLE—Strength, reliability and long life

THE Ford 1½-ton truck is a haulage unit carefully designed to provide unusual performance under a wide variety of conditions, and long, reliable service at minimum cost. With 4-speed transmission and 40-horse-power engine, the Ford truck has a remarkably flexible range of speed and power.

Rugged strength is a feature of the Ford truck. An important example is the new rear axle. It has a special spiral bevel gear, with straddle-mounted pinion. The axle shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating type of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

The new front axle and spring are stronger and heavier, as are front radius-rod, king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings. Brakes on the front wheels have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety. Brakes are of the mechanical type, internal expanding, and all are fully enclosed. Controls have been redesigned, and operate with minimum effort.

Dual rear wheels are available at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout with the dual equipment. All six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

LARGER BRAKES—Providing a greater degree of safety

1½-ton truck chassis, $520

With Stake body and closed cab $675
With Panel body $800
With Express body and closed cab $665
With Platform body and closed cab $660

(f. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery). Dual Rear Wheels optional for $25. Universal Credit Company Plan of time-payments offers you another Ford economy.

Time savers

The great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time. In the big affairs and the little things of life, time is the most valuable thing at our command.

Limited trains, automatic telephones, special editions of newspapers, sixty-miles-an-hour automobiles, airplanes still faster—we have these things in answer to our demand for speed. And an equally important time saver in the lives of people today is advertising. Just as surely as any other modern service, the advertisements bridge hours and days for people who have wants to be filled.

Readers of advertisements are the same people who demand the utmost efficiency in communication, in business, in their daily life. They know that a few minutes' reading of the advertisements will tell them more about products, values and the intelligent spending of their money than they could discover in days by any other method.

And like the other great time savers, advertisements save money and energy, as well. The reading of Constitution advertisements is a genuine human economy.

11 Reported Drowned

The prunes and the tunes were there"

Have you, too, heard the Cannery racket — the little tin-clad "Sound" operas and jazz numbers so genially welcomed here by the delicatessen set?

TO some theatre interests this is a heart-warming clamor. It means economy for them, hence greater profits.

To persons of sound musical taste, it is ludicrous and impudent—an affront to the intelligence and taste of the theatre-going public. They see in the talkies no excuse for resort to Canned Music.

If you, dear reader, are one of those who recognize that machine-made sound cannot take the place of living orchestras and organists in the theatre . . . if you deplore corruption of musical appreciation and discouragement of musical talent . . . if you see no reason why you should forego the pleasure of real music in the theatre to enable an economy whose benefits you do not share, TREAT YOURSELF TO A SIGH OF RELIEF. Georgia Artist's Exhibition Opens Today at Museum

An exhibition of about 85 examples of the work of Georgia artists, given by the Association of Georgia Artists, will open with a preview and tea from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon at the High Museum of Art, on Peachtree at Fifteenth street. The collection will be on view, without charge, to the general public through March 25.

The Association of Georgia Artists was created about a year ago at Savannh and includes in its membership practically every artist of consideration in the state. In the exhibit to open today there are included canvasses by four Atlanta artists, Cornelia Cunningham, Frances Lee Turner, Thomas Delbridge and Marjory Conant Bush-Brown, Mrs. Harold Bush-Brown is vice president of the organization

There will also be today an exhibit at the museum of handcraft by Mrs. W. McLellan Edson. This consists of pottery, jewelry, etc., and is of exceptional interest.

A large crowd attended the free lecture on "Grills and Doorways," given on Sunday afternoon by L. Palmer Skidmore, director of the High Museum.

Admiral C. A. Carr Dies at Age of 73

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 9. (AP)—Rear Admiral Clarence Alfred Carr, U. S. N., retired, died in his sleep at his home here last night. His body was found today by Mrs. Carr.

Rear Admiral Carr, aged 73, was well known as a naval engineer. During the World War he was in charge of the engineering work at the Philadelphia navy yard. He retired from the navy in 1920, coming here to live three years later.

Mickle Quits Pulpit At Oakhurst Church

Resignation of Rev. Phil H. Mickle, pastor of Oakhurst Presbyterian church, Decatur, was accepted at a congregational meeting following the service Sunday morning. Mr. Mickle, who came here from Danville, Va., and who has been pastor of the Oakhurst church for three and one-half years, tendered his resignation effective April 1.

Big Bethel Choir No. 1 Will Repeat Concert

Due to the large number of requests which have come to the pastor and members of the choir, "Heaven Bound," a religious song spectacle, which was presented by Big Bethel choir No. 1, of Big Bethel A. M. E. church, will be repeated at the church, corner of Auburn avenue and Butler street, at 8:30 o'clock tonight. A specially trained chorus of 25 voices will participate. Members and friends of the church are invited and reserved seats will be held for white people. Rev. B. J. Dawson, formerly of Chicago, is the pastor.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. G. L. CRANDALL

Beloved Atlanta Woman Laid to Final Rest in West View.

The funeral of Mrs. George L. Crandall, beloved Atlanta woman, took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at All Saints' Episcopal church on West Peachtree street, of which she was a devout member. Mrs. Crandall was born in Sparta, Wis., and died March 7, at a private hospital in Atlanta after a prolonged illness.

She was Miss Jane McMillan before her marriage to George L. Crandall.

They moved here in 1897, making this city their home, save for a short time they took up their residence in Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Crandall became a member of All Saints' church when it was erected and she was prominently identified with church activities, and also took a prominent place in the social life of the city.

Mrs. Clayton Cooley, of Minneapolis, Minn., a sister, was here for the funeral. She is also survived by Mr. Crandall, two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Daley, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Henry Havens, of Jacksonville, Fla., and a son, Fred Crandall, of Atlanta. Henry Havens, Jr., and Jane Crandall are her grandchildren.

Dr. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints' church, officiated at the services and interment followed at West View. The following were pallbearers: Milton Dargan, Sr., Edward Peters, P. Thornton Marye, H. B. Scott, Charlie King, Charles Sciple, Clarence May and Dudley Coles.

Director of Census Talks Here Tuesday

Dr. William M. Steuart, director of bureau of the census, and Robert M. Davis, statistical editor of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, will visit Atlanta Tuesday to explain the plans of the census bureau for taking the census of manufacturers and the first national census of distribution at a dinner sponsored by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Steuart will address the meeting briefly. Mr. Davis, who is chairman of the special committee on information of the national advisory committee on the censuses of manufactures and distribution, will be the principal speaker.

Mr. Davis is completing a tour of the United States, which he has made on behalf of the census bureau. In all, on his present trip, he has traveled more than 14,000 miles, for which in January he purchased a single railroad ticket, measuring seven feet in length from the Pennsylvania Railroad company, the longest ever sold by that company.

Child Ill, Mother Sought in Atlanta

Miss Inez Quinn, formerly Mrs. J. B. Crowe, of Jacksonville, Fla., Sunday night was being sought by police at local hotels, in response to a telegram from Mrs. S. H. Polk, of 1339 Liberty avenue, Jacksonville, asking that she be located. According to the telegrams, the oldest child of the woman sought here is near death. Miss Quinn is described as being tall, weighing about 125 pounds, and having red hair. She is supposed to be stopping at some local hotel.

Church Principles Outlined by Fuller

"Every businessman knows that failure is nearly always due to lack of observance of certain fundamental principles," declared Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, in his sermon Sunday morning on the subject, "The Church That Will Never Go Out of Business."

"So with churches; their measure of failure or success is due directly to their observance and practice of certain well laid principles," he paralleled.

From this premise Dr. Fuller outlined the precepts upon which a church must proceed to attain success as a "new testament church." The first of these he pronounced to be unity, declaring that ownership of property, the outlet and medium of activity of all departments, the business problems, and the spiritual guidance of beliefs should rest in the church as one body.

Next, according to Dr. Fuller, a church must recognize its sovereign power, and exercise its sovereignty over the conduct of its members without timidity or favor. That the church must remain conscious of its real mission was the third requisite of success as interpreted by Dr. Fuller.

Prep Baseball Teams Begin Practice for 1930 Season Today

CRACKERS GET JUMP ON OTHER DIXIE CLUBS

PREP BASEBALL WORK TO START THIS AFTERNOON

Coaches To Take Charge of Practices; Meeting Slated Soon.

By Roy White.

Prep athletes will turn their attention to baseball practice this afternoon in the first official workouts of the year 1930. Some of the eager young baseball candidates have been working for two weeks but none of the coaches have been in charge of the workouts.

Rumors were flying thick and fast last week as to the strength of the various teams but were unfounded for the most part. Several athletes have made their fellow students believe they are first-class players, but the coaches differ in a majority of the instances.

University School, Boys' High and Tech High will work at Piedmont park. Decatur, G. M. A., Russell and Marist will work on their own diamonds, while Fulton High will practice at Brisbane park, and Commercial High will practice at Kirkwood park.

GRID PRACTICE.

Meanwhile spring football practice will continue at Tech High for another week and G. M. A. will continue its spring work for several days longer.

Track is occupying the minds of a large number of prep athletes and the first competition meet will be the city prep track meet scheduled for April 23 at Grant field. The G. I. A. A. will follow soon after and the Tech relays will draw a large number of local prep track athletes.

Baseball prospects indicate one of the most successful seasons in the history of the city prep league. There were arguments all last year over the eligibility of several players and all those entanglements will be unrolled and straightened out before the new season gets under way.

PREP MEETING.

None of the schedules have been made out to date, pending a meeting of the prep league, which probably will be held within the next three days. All the city teams are waiting for the prep league schedules to be completed before arranging games with members of the G. I. A. A. and other prep schools in the state.

In talking over the schedules a few days ago, several of the coaches favored starting the season the first or second week in April, giving three weeks or more for practice.

It is planned to play two games each week, on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, with Saturday games left open for games with G. I. A. A. and other teams.

Coach Claude Tolbert will have to replace several stars of last season before the Smithies get into the running. Coach Doyal will have to build a new pitching staff. His Purple Hurricane twirlers were about the best in the league last season. He is planning to shift Gatlin, a member of the basketball team, from the outfield to pitching duty. Stayton will be shifted to the catcher's position, Doyal said several days ago.

BEST PITCHER.

Coach Hodges will have in Ruben Tucker one of the best pitchers in prep circles. He was a one-man pitching staff last season, but will have McKinley, a new right-hander, to rely on for relief duty this year.

University is farther advanced than any of the other prep teams. The Bluebirds have been working together for a week and with another week of work will be ready to engage in some practice games.

Just what the others have in the way of material remains to be seen. A large number of youngsters entered school last September from the junior high schools and there are some likely prospects from those ranks.

Tech Swimmers Engage Clemson

After two weeks of a vacation from competition, one filled with hard practice and the other scheduled for the same proceedings, Georgia Tech's swimming squad will again take to the water against the opposition forces this Saturday night when they meet Clemson's Tigers in the Atlanta Athletic Club pool.

The Jacket natators, who won the conference title with little difficulty a week ago last Saturday, have been drilling hard for the Clemson meet. Coach Jack Gray, not satisfied with the speed shown in the conference meet, has sent his charges up and down the pool in an effort to clip seconds from the times in every start.

Practice showings during the past week indicate that he is achieving his purpose. The lads have been skimming the water with more adeptness than heretofore and give promise of setting new season marks in the clash with Clemson.

This week's drills will also be devoted to polishing on form and cutting times.

On the basis of their respective showings in the conference meet, Tech should be an easy victor over the Tigers. The Jackets, scoring 44 points to stand well in advance of the balance of the field, led the Clemson total of six points by a large margin.

It was announced at the Flats that a meet had been scheduled with the Savannah Y. M. C. A. team to be held in Savannah in mid-April.

Sign Again.

NEW YORK, March 9.—(UN)—Columbia and Princeton have signed a two-year agreement to resume football relations after a lapse of 27 years, during the 1932 and 1933 seasons, Graduate Manager Reynolds Benson, of Columbia, announced today. The first game will be played at Baker Field, New York, and the second at Palmer stadium, Princeton, N. J.

'Doc' Silva, Speed Merchant, Hopes To Land Old Berth With Crackers.

Doc Silva, the hustling outfielder, passed through town yesterday en route to Douglas to report for spring training. Illness in his family delayed him.

Silva is in fine shape and is anxious to stick with the club. It will be recalled that Doc joined the Crackers last year when they were stumbling along with no more pepper than a litter of sick kittens. Silva's get-up-and-git spirit made them perk up.

Doc never got to hitting. His bat was useless furniture. But he hustled his head off, fielded smartly and added a lot of zipp whenever he got on base.

From a distance it looks as if the Crackers could stand a little more speed. The team as it stands has lots of brains, but does not promise to beat out many infield hits.

PROHIBITION NOTE.

"We had a quiet winter in Reading," said Doc. "The only excitement came when a still exploded next door to the Pennsylvania station. Some say it was bombed by a rival gang, but the general opinion was the its own power wrecked it."

OH, YEAH!

The prize "bull"-etin of the spring season was given out by Jack Whaley, president of the Nashville Vols, who was quoted in the Banner as follows:

"I wouldn't take Leo Durocher if the Reds offered him to us. He is one of the greatest infielders I ever saw, but he wouldn't hit enough in this league."

Perhaps Jack meant there was no use hiring a right-handed hitter, when any left-handed batter can hit a home run per game in the home lot.

STILL PLAYING FOOTBALL.

Several Conference institutions have finished spring football, but others are just getting started.

Tulane for instance reports the squad divided into the "Greenies" and the "Waves;" they are drilling for a big full time scrimmage March 22.

Georgia still has a few tardy varsity men and a big collection of freshmen at work.

Georgia Tech has about 25 freshmen practicing under Line Coach Bill Fincher. The varsity men have been excused and have scattered to baseball and track fields.

Vanderbilt's original spring squad has been decimated by examinations and by track and baseball demands.

North Carolina is still busy with the usual extensive intramural games, a feature stressed by Coach Chuck Collins.

WHEN RULES DON'T COUNT.

Arbitrary standards of judging the fitness of athletes now and then are made to look silly.

The New York boxing commission ruled that Johnny Risko was too small to fight Campolo, yet Johnny fought him in Miami and was given the worst of the draw decision.

Racing rules prohibit a jockey riding until he is 16 years old. The other day it was discovered that Verlyn Smith, an apprentice jockey who won 100 races last year and was runner-up to Melvin Knight, the champion rider, was only 14 years old.

Arbitary rules are excellent of course as a working basis. But now and then measuring fitness by age or weight seems a poor standard. Performance in any sport is not governed by scales and birth-dates.

SOME SORT OF RECORD.

Those who, like the conductor of this column, mutilate any golf ball after nine holes, provided it is not lost, will gnash teeth to read that one Little Rock public links golfer has been playing with one golf ball for 168 holes and his partner has used one for 177 holes.

That not only speaks well for the skill of the golfers and the durability of the balls, but it puts Little Rock caddies at the head of the procession.

Ex-Jockey Scores In Havana Race

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Chick Lang, former star jockey, scored a triumph as an owner today when his Play Boy won the $2,000 Havana Post handicap at Oriental Park, Havana. Given a perfect ride by Jockey G. Seabo, the son of Playfellow-Toying took the mile and an eighth feature from a good field with speed to spare.

Baltimore, owned by Captain F. Eaton, was second and J. E. Smallman's Channing A. was third. The winner paid 5 to 1. Fine weather brought the season's largest crowd to the track.

Jockey J. Boucher gave a fine performance at Havana, placing mounts in the money in five of the seven races. He rode three winners, a second and a third.

The Calcutta handicap at Agua Caliente, considered a try-out for the big coast stake events, produced a surprise when the Agua Caliente stable's Scimitar carried off the winner's share of the $2,000 prize. Scimitar paid $25.60 in the $2 mutuels. Naishapur, from the Wilshire stable, was second, and the Allocarrodio stable's Alexander Pantages was third. Vanity, the favorite, was fifth, behind Victorian.

Scimitar was ridden by Frankie Catrone, who booted home three winners in the eight-race program.

Good and Hot, from the Meadowbrook stable, captured the $1,500 derby consolation purse for 3-year-olds at a mile and one-sixteenth, beating out Wizardry and Hatrack. The winner paid $10.60 in the mutuels.

Penn In Running For Court Crown

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—The closing week of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league campaign finds Penn's valiant Quakers still in the thick of the running for the championship the experts conceded to Columbia a week ago.

Faced with virtual elimination from the race last Wednesday, Penn staged a garrison finish to give Yale its first defeat of the season on its own floor. That surprising victory for the Quakers, totally unexpected in view of the fact that Columbia's only league defeat had been suffered at New Haven, kept Penn in the running.

The decisive battle now will be fought at Philadelphia on Wednesday when the two leaders clash at the Palestra. Two other games, however, will have a decided bearing on the race. Dartmouth invades New York to meet Columbia tomorrow night and Penn and Princeton are matched at Philadelphia in the final game of the regular schedule Saturday night.

If Columbia beats Dartmouth, as expected, then Penn must win over both Columbia and Princeton to gain a tie with the Lions and force a play-off. If Dartmouth beats Columbia, then Penn can gain clear title to its third successive league championship by beating Columbia and Princeton.

Two teams, Yale and Cornell, have closed their season.

Albany Wins Title In Court Tourney

ALBANY, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—Albany High school, Southwest Georgia High School Athleic association football champion for the past season, captured the basketball title of the association Monday night at Pelham by defeating the Coolidge quintet, 33-19.

BEARS DEPEND UPON RED SOX TO SEND HELP

Hamilton Says He Will Cause Other Southern Clubs Trouble.

MOBILE, Ala., March 9.—(AP)—Although Jimmy Hamilton, new owner and manager of the Mobile Bears, isn't predicting a first division berth for his team this year he believes the Bears will give the favored Southern league teams a battle all the way.

Hamilton, who formerly managed Canton, Ohio, bought the Mobile club several months ago and has been busy since then acquiring new players and shaping up his battle formation for the coming season. The situation is still unsettled but Hamilton expects to obtain several classy players from the Boston Red Sox before the season opens.

Only a few of last year's players will be found on the 1930 roster. The Bears fared rather badly the past season and Hamilton believes that new blood is necessary to pull the team out of the rut.

KEYSTONE BACK.

John Chapman, one of the best second basemen in the league last year, will be back at his old post and Jerry Standeart is slated for third base.

Hamilton obtained Reb Russell from Indianapolis, of the American Association and bought John "Pat" Wright from Chattanooga. Both are first basemen, but Hamilton may use Wright in the inner circle and shift Russell to the outfield.

The short field will be well taken care of by Joe Longnecker, received from the Jacksonville Tars in a trade involving four players, including Don Rutherford, Mobile shortstop of last season.

UTILITY MEN.

Dutch Hoffman, who hit .305 with Canton; Charley Gorman, imported from Indianapolis, and Welch will serve as utility infielders, although Welch may be given a trial in the outfield.

In addition to Russell and Welch, who may be used in the outer gardens; Hamilton has Otto Dumas, a holdover; Lyman Lamb, who hit .319 with Beaumont in the Texas league last season, and Pat Collins, who batted at a .354 clip with Jacksonville, of the Southeastern loop.

Alex McCall, John Burdick, George Kiger and Alex Lindstrom are the Canton men. Lindstrom won 24 and lost 11 games with the Central league entry last year.

Other new flingers include Tom Rogers, who managed the Macon Peaches, of the South Atlantic league last year; Harold Roberts from Jersey City, of the International league, and Horace Green, Nashville semi-pro. Rolla Maple is the outstanding holdover.

THREE CATCHERS.

Two experienced backstops and a semi-pro player will form the catching department. Ralph Minetree was obtained from Chattanooga and Dewey Hill came from Erie, Pa., of the Central league, where he hit .333 and had a fielding record of .974. Gene Green is the semi-pro from Nashville.

A 20-game spring exhibition schedule has been arranged for the Bears prior to the opening of the league. Work will begin Monday.

Rosenbloom Meets Johnson Tonight

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Madison Square Garden has scheduled two shows this week to regain for New York the fistic leadership of the nation.

Tomorrow night the Garden presents a 10-rounder between Maxey Rosenbloom light-heavyweight contender, and Larry Johnson, hard-hitting Chicago negro, as the feature of a charity show. Johnson dropped a close decision to Pete Latzo in his last appearance here but was given the bout with Rosenbloom anyway. Lou Scozza, Buffalo light-heavyweight, takes on Rosy Rosales, of Cleveland, in the 10-round semi-final.

On Friday the Garden's second show of the week will be headed by a 10-rounder between Tony Canzoneri, erstwhile featherweight champion, and Stanislaus Lonyza, Chilean lightweight.

At the Chicago stadium on Friday night, Rene Devos, Belgian middleweight, takes on the clouting Texan, Clyde Chastian, of Dallas, in the 10-round final. Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, meets Paul Pantaleo, of Chicago, in the 10-round semi-final.

Philadelphia's weekly card tomorrow night finds George Godfrey, the huge Lienerville (Pa.) negro, pitted against Jack Gross, the baker boy from Salem, in 10 rounds.

Elberfeld's Team Beats Feds, 4 to 3

A four-run drive in the third inning of their game with the Commodore Feds gave a picked team from the Walton-Elberfeld baseball school a 4-3 decision Sunday afternoon.

Brook came up with the bases loaded in the fatal third and crashed out a resounding double which sent three runs across the plate. One man had already scored.

The Feds pecked away at the offerings of Cole, Fuller, Davis and Crowder, school pitchers, but could not click often enough to overcome the lead. They counted once in the first to get off in the van, and pushed over two more tallies in the fifth.

Elberfeld complimented both the Feds and his own squad on their showings. The school will go back in session this morning. Elberfeld announced closing date as March 20.

DICK SHIKAT FEARS JONES

Heavyweight Star Realizes Texan Will Give Him Tough Time.

Joe Toots Mondt, manager of Dick Shikat, the new sensation in the ring and the man who has been recognized as champion by New York and Pennsylvania commissions, makes the following announcement about his man who will be seen at the auditorium against Paul Jones Wednesday night:

"It is true that we have asked a large guarantee of Promoter Webber for meeting Paul Jones Wednesday night. I know that managers usually claim that their man is worried over all matches but I think Atlanta fans know that Jones is not a man to be trifled with. He is hard to beat. I think, of course, that Shikat will win. But I am not confident. I know, as does any wrestler, that once Jones gets that hold of his there is no escape unless one can pull to the ropes. We are coming to Atlanta for a great match. Atlanta fans who saw me years ago know that I know a wrestler when I see one and I say with all sincerity that I think Shikat is greater than Lewis or Stecher were in their prime."

Shikat and Jones meet Wednesday night as the headline match of a double-header heavyweight wrestling card, the finest that Promoter Henry Webber has ever arranged.

They will be preceded by a match that all wrestling fans of Atlanta want to see. That ubiquitous Charley Fox, the ex-cop, of Cleveland, Ohio, has announced that he will polish off his Canadian opponent of that evening with ease. La Dudey, who meets him, is a first-class heavyweight but Fox is confident.

Fox is a unique character in the ring. He first appeared in Atlanta some four or five weeks ago. His opponent for that evening was called home because of the serious illness of his father. Fox took the substitute, Protelli, slammed him about and then said, after pinning him, "Bring me on another Greek." This delighted and infuriated the audience.

Promoter Webber, who is not raising the prices for this match, especially invites the ladies. Hundreds have been coming to his matches and they will be admitted to this one, including the champion, for the usual price of seventy-five cents. Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont hatters and at the Candler building soda fountain.

New Minor Affiliation Is Sought by Crackers

Club Has Many Promising Rookies to Develop; Macon Agreement Understood Off.

By Ralph McGill.
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 9.—Atlanta's rookie ball players, those who will be retained for another look, will have their future baseball home decided on sometime this week, according to Cracker officials who dispersed here last night.

This announcement apparently means that the Crackers will not again work with the Macon club, on which many of the players of former years have been developed.

"We are working on an agreement with another minor league club," said President Chip Robert and Business Manager Spiller while here yesterday, "but have not come to any definite conclusion. We expect to reach one this week."

The Cracker officials were certain of one thing, however. They will not, positively not, purchase a club for use as a farm. Neither will they take one whose franchise will be given away to any club that will maintain it.

This arrangement is used by one or two Southern league clubs. The Nashville Vols, for instance, own the Canton franchise in the Central league. It was given to them on condition that they maintain it. Jimmy Hamilton won a pennant for them last season and gave them something of an even break financially.

DON'T WANT FARM.

The Crackers, however, are not interested in owning a farm. They have several rookies who must be placed for development. The crop of rookies this season, while it is not large, contains some players who are well worth tying a string to instead of a can.

Manager Johnny Dobbs is eager to develop as many men as possible for future use. Dobbs has signed a three-year contract and has an eye ahead. Which is often a very fine place to have an eye.

"I don't like players on option," Dobbs declared. "I think we should have our own ball club." Consequently there will be a determined effort made to develop all the men possible.

LASS FINE PROSPECT.

Ed Lass, purchased from the Nebraska State league, may fight his way through to a position on the club this year. He is considered a very fine outfield prospect. He looks like a real hitter. Lass swings from the starboard side of the plate and has a tremendous lot of power. He fields

Cracker Game Slated Soon

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 9.—Johnny Dobbs, Cracker skipper, indicated today that he would divide the squad up into the regulars and yannigans early this week and play the first game of the season. A game is scheduled with a team from Nashville Ga., on Wednesday.

Detroit Woman Ace Joins Miss Collett

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, Mich., several times Detroit district woman golf champion and Michigan state titleholder and a prominent figure in the ranks of the women golfers of the United Statese, has announced that she had accepted the invitation of Miss Glenna Collett, national champion, to go abroad with a team of American women golfers for a series of international matches with English players.

The squad will sail on the S. S. Berengaria on April 22. The team matches will be played on May 1. Miss Collett already has recruited a very formidable team of American women golfers, including besides herself the Misses Virginia Van Wie, recent winner of the Florida East Coast championship and the permanent possession of the Mrs. William R. McLean, Jr., cup; Helen Hicks, semi-finalist in this same tournament; Bernice Wall, semi-finalist last year in the national championship; Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo; Virginia Holzderber, Maryland state champion, and Mrs. Hanley.

RAINY WEATHER SLOWS MEMPHIS, BARON CLUBS

Atlanta Puts in Nearly Six Days' Work at Douglas.

By Ed Danforth.

Five Southern league clubs made more or less progress in their spring training last week.

Rain wrecked the exercises in Birmingham and Memphis. The Crackers probably made more progress than any of their rivals by getting in the equivalent of six days' work in Douglas. The Pels had good weather, but few regulars on hand.

The Lookouts had only their pitching candidates at work; the main body reports for work today in Joe Engel's new plant.

The Little Rock Travelers, ritzing the other boys to an extent, began training in Hot Springs Saturday. They will stay at the health resort three weeks. Nashville and Mobile go to work today.

On the returns to date; the Crackers have a slight edge on their competitors both in condition and in number of regulars in action.

PELICANS.

The Pelicans have been working for a week in fair weather but few of the regulars have shown up. Old Joe Martina, who bought his release from a Texas league club for two barrels of oysters, has been out every day pitching to batting practice.

Manager Larry Gilbert is sifting a flock of 20 rookies and seems to have given his old timers a week's grace. Bob Dowie, the old catcher, is helping him.

One of the recruits on the Pelican lot is "Bucky" Moore, the Dixie Flyer, who ran a mean halfback for Loyola at New Orleans in his day.

BARONS.

It has been raining steadily in Birmingham and Cousin Clyde Milan has had the small army of players working under the grandstand in relays.

The news says that Ray Francis and Bob Hasty have already curved a few to the catchers.

The Barons have more men on hand than any other club. Their feed bills are mounting sky-high and cuts can be expected right away. The Birmingham newspapers, incidentally, are taking the training season rather calmly. This is an opinion, merely.

CHICKS.

It rained in Memphis last week and rained hard. But Manager Doc Prothro took his men out to the state fair grounds and worked in the cattle barn. Two days of this were necessary.

All the Tribesmen are present or accounted for except Bill Barrett, the catcher who broke his leg here during the Battle of Ponce de Leon in 1928. Barrett is manifesting all the symptoms of holding out.

It seems that the Chicks have a number of promising young pitchers, two gaps in the infield and a vacant pasture. The Chicks are far from set counting the men on hand.

MOBILE.

They have been holding civic pep meetings down in Mobile to sell season ticket books and assure the gate receipts.

President-Manager Jimmy Hamilton has had the Kiwanis Club and the Chamber of Commerce hit the sawdust trail in his behalf. The Legion post gave the club a new American flag for the pole. The ball players do not report until Monday but strenuous efforts are being made to safeguard their future before they arrive. The newspapers from down there are aggressively optimistic.

VOLS.

After a mysterious delay that nearly drove Nashville fans frantic, Manager Clarence Rowland drifted into Nashville last Thursday and calmed their fears.

Manager Rowland pointed out that he had 13 "letter men" returning and that the club was all set for at least 30 days. The Vols will start practicing their home runs over the right field fence Monday.

Ernie Padgett will not be with the Vols this year. Eddie Lewis has been sold to Binghampton. Moose Clabaugh and Bunnie Brief are not coming toward Nashville either. So the papers say.

Savannah's Quintet To Play Champions

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—A mythical championship among Georgia and Florida high school teams will be decided here either Friday or Saturday when the Savannah High, G. I. A. A. titleholders, meet Robert E. Lee High, of Jacksonville, victors in the Big Ten tournament held in that state.

The Florida Big Ten, consisting of the larger high schools of the state, is much on the same order as the G. I. A. A. of Georgia.

Savannah won the G. I. A. A. title at Macon last week by defeating Columbus in the final game.

Milt Stock, Bader, Kiefer Report

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 9.—Milton Stock, infielder and former manager of the Mobile Bears and the Dallas Steers, and Joe Kiefer, Cracker pitcher last season, reported this afternoon along with Leo Bader, infielder at Macon last year. They came in just at the conclusion of a long batting practice in which Charley Hunt and Jim Hammond, recruits, knocked balls over the fence. F. H. Parker, a catcher from Moultrie, who played in New Mexico last year, was another arrival of the day.

Wilbert Robinson Sees Brooklyn as Menace in National's Race

CLUB STOCKED WITH RESERVES; CRIPPLES WELL

"Give Us Good Pitching and Watch Us Go," Says Robbie.

By Brian Bell,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 9.—(AP) — Sixty-seven-year-old Wilbert Robinson, whose enthusiasm cannot be dulled by the advancing years, is satisfied that Brooklyn has a fine team in the making. All his Robins have to do is convince the other National league clubs.

In spite of the absence of his hardest hitter, Babe Herman, who has not signed his 1930 contract, "good old Robby" with the Brooklyn baseball civil war ended, is pleased by every prospect—except perhaps a little early season control by some of his pitchers. Time will remedy this, he thinks.

Robby sees Glenn Wright, who was a 1929 casualty, throw to first base, something he could not do last year, and booms, "Look at that." Jake Flowers scampers about second as though he had never been sick a day in his life, and Robby yells "See that."

ROBINSON SMILES.

The Pacific Coast twins, Neal Finn and Gordon Slade, who may not be able to jimmy their way into the lineup at the outset, dash about the field just like major leaguers and the manager smiles from ear to ear.

Del Bissonette, the clever first baseman who had a serious operation during the off season, has not entirely recovered, but the optimistic Robby expects him to be in the lineup. "If old Del can't play, old Harvey Hendrick can play first pretty well," he said. Everybody is "old" to Robby. Even if the early cheer created by Wright's apparent return to throwing form should be overemphasized, the club will not be weak at shortstop, for Slade has shown that he can play the position and hit fairly well. Finn, his partner, can hit a lot and play very well at second base.

Flowers and Wright will make up the early second base-shortstop arrangement with Wally Gilbert taking care of third. This arrangement will leave the best assortment of reserve material Brooklyn has had in many moons, including Slade and Finn as certainties and possibly Eddie Moore or Johnny Warner.

FREDERICK BACK.

When Herman comes to terms he will resume his right field engagemen with Johnny Frederick, a star his first year up, again in center. Hendricks and the veteran Rube Bressler may again alternate in left with some likely recruits from the minors threatening to make themselves so valuable they cannot be let out. Max West, a Newark standby last year, has been impressive in practice.

Alfonso Lopez has worked well enough as a catcher in the spring training period to suggest that he will catch many games this year. A good hitter and boasting a deadly arm, Lopez seems about to take his place as one of the brilliant young catchers promoted to the big time. Two veterans, Hank Deberry and Val Picinich will balance and complete the staff.

Dazzy Vance, who had a very un-Vance-like year in 1929 has been working as hard as any recruit in the practice and has announced a comeback platform for 1930. The strikeout king was handicapped by illness last year but expects to be himself again this season.

ELLIOTT SHOWS UP.

"Big Jim" Elliott, the huge southpaw who was incapacitated by sickness last year and unable to work, has been showing his old time stuff.

"Is he alright?" repeated Robby, "I expect to start him in one of the first exhibition games." William Watson Clark, a left-hander who pitched great ball last season, will be in there again as will Ray Moss, Clise Dudley and Johnny Morrison.

Adolfo Luque, the veteran Cuban pitcher, transferred from the Reds, will see plenty of work under Brooklyn colors. Hollis Thurston, formerly with the White Sox and Washington, who was drafted from San Francisco, has been pitching well and hitting like an outfielder. Jim Faulkner, thoroughly left-handed, another pitcher procured through the draft, will be given every chance to make a place for himself.

There are 17 pitchers in the camp and Manager Robinson, with a far-flung reputation as a judge of talent, expects to assemble a capable staff.

"That's all we need now," he said, "just some good pitching and we'll get somewhere. This is no second division team."

Certainly his players go about their work with a vim and if the spirit threatens to lag, all they have to do is to look at the bench to see Robby exuding perspiration and enthusiasm from every pore.

Bill Tilden Wins Slipshod Match

MENTONE, France, March 9.—(AP)—In one of the poorest finals ever seen on the Riviera, Big Bill Tilden, of Philadelphia, today won the singles title of the Mentone tennis tournament from Jacques Brugnon, veteran French internationalist, in five sets. The scores were 10-8, 7-5, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1.

The first four sets went to one or the other chiefly because of opponent nets, faults or outs. Both Tilden and Brugnon played extremely slip-shod tennis. In the last set, however, Tilden recovered his real form and won without trouble.

In the finals of the doubles, Tilden and Wilbur F. Coen defeated Tamio Abe and Carl Aeschliman, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

DOWN the LINE by W. O. McGeehan

Regarding Perfumes.

TUNIS, February 27.—This is a city that Jack Kearns alone would appreciate for here a man who is perfume-minded may express himself. As a matter of fact he must express himself or become conspicuous. There are perfumes for every occasion and for every mood, which of course leaves the uninitiated open to an occasional faux pas, which makes him feel awkward for the time being.

But the Arabs of Tunis are open minded that way. They will overlook an occasional slip in the matter of perfumes on the part of the tourist who is lacking in education in the matter of scents. As long as he is wearing some sort of perfume he can get by in the best circles. But to go forth with no parfum whatever would be like venturing into the streets without one's trousers or quite nude, which would be considered a faux pas in any country unless it happens to be George Bernard Shaw bathing somewhere along the Riviera.

Mohamet Ali has been trying to get me educated in the matter of perfumes and I tried it for one day. According to instructions I slipped a few drops of essence of violet into the bath in the morning and experienced a slight choking sensation, which passed on standing a while at the open window.

Then I sprinkled a few drops of attar of rose on the left hand and ordered the petit dejeuner. It had a retarding effect upon the appetite but then I have been eating too much anyhow. As the day was fair I sprinkled some mimosa on the right hand before venturing into the streets. I had recalled correctly, for all of the Arabs in the souks were wearing mimosa that morning.

After a short stroll I returned to the hotel. I had forgotten the vial of amber and I wanted cigarettes. But it is a gross breach of Tunisian etiquette to smoke in public unless they are scented with amber. The gendarmes are very strict about this law and even the fact that one is a foreigner will not save him from being hailed before the kaid and fined and possibly imprisoned, especially if it should happen to be a second offense.

For dejeuner it was necessary for me to use a little of the essence of heliotrope sprinkled on both hands. There was a slight disturbance in the dining room, which was quieted by the firmness of the head waiter. It seems that a tourist from Czecho-Slovakia had entered the dining room perfumed with narcisse noir. Some of the ladies present, being shocked by this error, the offender was promptly ejected and was told that he would either change to the proper perfume at once or be compelled to have his dejeuner in his own room where his bad table manners would not offend the guests of the hotel.

At dinner—unless, of course, it happens to be of a very formal nature—one is permitted some latitude in the matter of perfumes. The only set custom is that the perfume must be changed at each course. Should one use the same perfume with the fish as he has used with the soup the matter hardly would be overlooked.

Before dinner one goes to the cafe where an aperitif is served. With this one uses a mixture of various perfumes which constitute a sort of olfactory cocktail and which is supposed to sharpen the appentite. If two aperitifs are required, one naturally should have two mixtures of varied perfumes.

On retiring, the sophisticated visitor to Tunis sprinkles jasmine over himself. This is the perfume which always is associated with slumber. And when you are liberally sprinkled with jasmine you may try to sleep if you can. Initiated visitors to a Tunis hotel are permitted to mix their jasmine with a little choloroform.

ROOKIES LOOK GOOD

well and fans will see him in some of the exhibition games. A very secure string will be tied to Edward Lass in the event he does not stick with the club this season, something that is not altogether improbable.

Leo Bader, the infielder from Macon, is another who may be seen around Spiller field quite a lot this summer. There was considerable moaning at Brooklyn when it was necessary to turn him loose on the market. The major league regulations prohibit sending a player out for more than two years. Brooklyn's time was up and they sold him. They obey those rules. Oh, my, yes. Maybe you've heard of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis. Most of the boys have. He is the policeman of baseball and how he does enforce the law!

Charley Hunt, the Rochelle Rapper, has created quite a lot of favorable comment by his swinging of the bat. He hits hard and he fields. Johnny Dobbs thinks he will be a ball player. He is a year or so away from the Crackers, especially this season, when they have that great outfield on hand. But he looks good.

John Rydzewski (what a lot of fun there is in spelling his name once one learns how) is another who may be in our midst so to speak, this season. It is much too early to say anything about how they look. There hasn't been enough work yet to determine what the boys can do. When the big totem pole begins bearing down he may surprise the boys at the plate. Rydzewski has played only semi-pro ball at Chicago but the semi-pro ball up there is not so slow. He is a fine fellow, is Rydzewski, and popular with the club.

While Lefty Wierman is not a rookie, having been in the league before, he looks good enough to have around. He is a Class B man and that is in his favor. He will be retained by the Crackers even if he isn't one of the lefthanded pitching corps this summer. And he may be if Dobbs carries three of the southpaw throwers.

The good old state of Georgia sent up seven rookies to the Crackers. Hunt is one of them. Jim Hammond, Atlanta outfielder, is another recruit of whom Dobbs thinks well. He hits hard and often. Lonnie Cleveland, the infielder, is another. Segrave, Griffin and McGhee are also being looked over carefully.

The Crackers have a prize in Erskine (Wildboy) Thompson, the catcher. Just a short while out of Oglethorpe university, he has a world of paprika. Folks eating at the same table with him don't have to shake any into their soup or on their steaks. He throws well and he hits well.

Erskine Thompson might stick with the club. If he doesn't he is practically a certainty for next season. In fact, it would not be such a wild guess to hazard one that he will some day be wearing the windpad in the major leagues.

The recruit crop looks good. News that the Crackers will attempt to place most of them on one club for seasoning will be watched with interest.

Dobbs will not make a cut in the squad until late this week, probably not until next week. He is a fair baseball man and any young man in his camp will get a fair trial. John Dobbs does not take snap judgment.

Marquette Relays Set for May 13

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 9.—With the basketball and hockey seasons and the state Catholic court tournament now out of their way, Marquette University athletic authorities will turn full attention to the eight annual Marquette National High school relay carnival to be held in the Marquette stadium on Saturday, May 3.

Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette athletic director and manager of the carnival, is completing a booklet which gives complete details of the carnival and which will be sent out to leading high schools in all parts of the United States. Schools noted for their prep relay teams will be especially urged to enter the meet.

The Marquette relays this year will be divided into four classes: 1. National relays; 2. Open relays; 3. Catholic school relays, and 4. Wisconson Class B relays. The national events will be open to high schools which are members of their state athletic associations, recognized by the National Federation of High Schools.

JIMMY M'LEOD, NAT INFIELDER, REACHES CAMP

Rookie From Southern To Play in Washington Shortfield Friday.

BILOXI, Miss., March 9.—(UN)—Infielder Jimmy McLeod, purchased from the Little Rock Southern league club for $15,000, reported to the Washington Senators today. Manager Johnson said he probably would try McLeod at shortstop in next Friday's exhibition game against the New Orleans Pelicans.

Infielder Jack Hayes has signed his contract reducing the unsigned players to three, Garland Braxton, Goose Goslin and Roy Spencer. The Senators' infield lined up today with Judge at first, Myer at second, Hayes at short and Bluege at third. It was the best working combination Manager Johnson has yet put together.

Robins.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 9.—(UN)—The Brooklyn Robins are ready for the team's spring exhibition schedule, Manager Wilbert Robinson said today. The opening game will be against Detroit Tuesday. The House of David nine will furnish opposition Thursday and the world champion Athletics will engage the Robins in two games Saturday and Sunday.

Cincinnati.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 9.—(UN) George Kelly, veteran first baseman, arrived here today and the Cincinnati Reds now have every player on the roster in camp. The Reds will begin their second week of training tomorrow.

Braves.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. March 9. (UN)—Rabbit Maranville was appointed captain of the Boston Braves for the 1930 season by Manager Bill McKechnie today, dispelling rumors that the pair would not be able to get along. Twice previously when McKechnie managed Pittsburgh and the St. Louis Cardinals, he released Maranville. Detroit beat the Braves at Tampa today, 14 to 5. The Braves are still angling for a third baseman and a deal is pending with the New York Giants.

White Sox.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 9.—(UN)—Irvine Jeffries, former University of Kentucky football star, purchased from the Dallas, Texas league club, has made a hit with Manager Donie Bush, of the Chicago White Sox. Jeffries is now playing third base in the absence of Willie Kamm but will be shifted to shortstop when Kamm reports.

Phillies.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 9. (UN)—The first casualty in the Phillies' camp occurred today when George Susce, young catcher, suffered a fracture of the left clavicle when struck on the left shoulder by a foul tip. He will be laid up two weeks.

Susce was catching Pitcher Byron Speece in batting practice. He caught three more pitchers before he felt the effects of the practice.

One long practice was held this afternoon. All of the pitchers worked on the mound in batting drill and then an infield composed of Whitney at third, Thevenow at shortstop, Friberg at second and Jack Sherlock at first, held a fast workout. Don Hurst, regular first baseman, chased flies in the outfield.

Libel Suit Is Filed Against Daily Mirror

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Newspaper stories alleged to imply that scenes showing foul blows were deleted from movie films of the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott boxing bout at Miami have led today to the filing of a libel suit for $250,000 against the New York Daily Mirror.

London Rumor Says Gregalach Injured

LONDON, March 9.—(AP)—Persistent rumors of injury to Gregalach, the 100-to-1 shot which won the last Grand National and betting favorite for the 1930 renewal of this steeplechase classic, have caused a sensation in racing circles here.

Mrs. M. Gemmell, owner of Gregalach, maintains there is nothing seriously wrong with the gelding. "He has a slight split," she said, "and his feet have been a little sore. The ground at Newmarket, where he is training, is pretty hard and we don't want to take any risks. It won't do any harm to let him go easily."

The rumors as to Gregalach's condition started when it became known that for several days he has been restricted to easy walking exercise.

INDOOR MEET DRAWS PRAISE OF OFFICIALS

Conference Coaches Are Elated Over Success of Indoor Meet.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 9.—(AP)—With the colors of the Flying Generals of Washington and Lee waving triumph in victory, coaches and conference athletic officials today termed the first Southern conference indoor games a brilliant success.

The Virginia track again overcame an early lead gained by track artists of the University of North Carolina to wrest the first indoor games title by two points, 29 to 27, here last night.

In the scholastic division Augusta Military academy, of Fort Defiance, Va., easily topped the field and in the freshman competition North Carolina had no difficulty in winning.

The Generals, with 6 of the 12 events recorded, were far behind the 20 points of North Carolina.

In the next three events the Virginians closed the gap to 22 to 16 and with all but one event, the mile relay, completed, the count was North Carolina 25 and Washington and Lee 24.

Washington and Lee took first in the final event and the meet. Garrett, North Carolina's second man in the event, dropped his baton on the second curve of his first lap. This mishap caused an almost even race to develop into a runaway for the Generals.

Conference coaches, and they were at the meet in large numbers, unanimously acclaimed the success of the games.

S. E. A. A. U. Meet To Be Discussed

Plans for the Southeastern A. A. U. boxing tournament, to be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club starting Friday and concluding Monday, will be furthered at a meeting scheduled for the club this afternoon.

Steve Hartney and Joe Bean, both of the A. A. C., and Mike Chambers, Georgia Tech trainer, have been in charge of the early arrangements and will put the final touches on the project today.

Chambers announced Sunday night that he had received a special delivery letter from Chapel Hill announcing that the Tarheels would send a team to the meet. Five or six men are expected.

40 Mercer Gridmen In Spring Drills

MACON, Ga., March 9.—(AP)—More than 40 ambitious gridders are participating in the spring football practice at Mercer university here under the direction of Coach Russell Lake.

Russell is making several changes in his squad for the 1930 campaign. Frank Branch, veteran guard, has been moved back to the fullback post, and Peter Stresepeck has been placed in the vacant guard post.

Two likely looking prospects up from frosh ranks are Donnelly, who has been shifted from the backfield to end and Myers, a flankman who is being tried out at tackle.

Russell is spending much time instructing Pinkey Walden, freshman backfield sensation last year, in the art of punting. Lake expects Walden to be first-string signal caller next year.

GENE SARAZEN, FARRELL WIN MIAMI MATCH

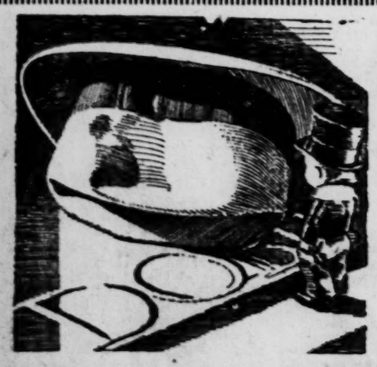

1928 Winners Score Easy Victory in International Four-Ball Play.

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Favorites in the first day's play in the $5,000 international four-ball match classic stroked their way to easy victory over the Miami Country Club course today as 16 two-man teams won their 36-hole matches.

Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, winner of the 1928 event, and runners-up for 1929, had an easy time as they chalked up a 7-and-6 win over Jack Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio, and Johnny Connell, Chicago. The former champions were 1 down during the first nine holes, but squared themselves on the 18th and on the outbound trip during the afternoon piled up a five-hole edge that resulted in their 7 and 6 score.

Horton Smith, newly signed professional at Cragston, N. Y., and Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., held their seeded position in the lower bracket of the day's play with a 3-and-2 victory over Wilfred Reid, snappy Detroit professional, and Charlie Murray, from Toronto, Canada. The winners led all along the way. They were 2 up at the sixth hole, 1 up at the ninth, 2 up at the 13th and 3 up at the 18th for a consistent margin that won their match.

The day's only extended thrill to the gallery of golf fans that followed play was the Willie Dow-Earl Howell affair with Johnny Mangin, St. Louis, and Jim Dante, Madison, N. J., in which the latter won 1 up in 38 holes.

Again Spit is a horrid word,
but it is worse on the end of your cigar

. . . the war against spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The strong arm of the law halts the spitter whose vile and vicious habit menaces his fellow citizens. But for every spitter caught hundreds escape . . . hundreds who still roll cigars with dirty fingers and spit on the ends! In fact, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said, "What this country needs is is a good 5c cigar!"

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

FARMER BROWN'S BOY PUTS THE NEST BACK.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

To me it daily is more clear
—Flip the Terrier.

"My master is certainly queer," thought Flip the Terrier as he sat with head cocked to one side, watching Farmer Brown's Boy.

Bowser the Hound didn't agree. You see, he had lived so much longer with Farmer Brown's Boy and had seen him do so many unexpected things that nothing he might do would seem queer to Bowser. Flip couldn't understand what it was all about. He had seen Farmer Brown's Boy take his knife from his pocket, open it and cut a branch off a bush on the edge of the Green Forest. Fastened to this branch was a great, gray globe. Flip didn't know what this was, but Bowser did. Bowser knew that it was a hornet's nest, or, to be more correct, a wasp's nest. Bowser had backed off a little when Farmer Brown's Boy began to cut that branch.

As Farmer Brown's Boy laid that nest down on the ground in order to put away his knife, a little mouse with a long tail and white feet suddenly appeared and then disappeared in the grass. Where he came from Flip did not see. He couldn't understand why his master suddenly stopped him. He quivered all over with excitement. He sure wanted to try to find and catch that mouse.

"Down, Flip, down!" commanded

When at length he had finished that nest was solidly in place

Farmer Brown's Boy. "That was Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, and we've made him trouble enough already. He must have come out of this hornet's nest. We'll look it over and see."

So Farmer Brown's Boy poked a finger in that hole. He discovered at once that there was a nice nest of soft grasses and other soft material inside. He scratched his head thoughtfully. "It is too bad," said he, talking to Flip and Bower. "If I had known that Whitefoot was living in this nest I wouldn't have touched it. A Mouse who was smart enough to choose such a place for a home ought not to lose that home. I wonder what we can do about it."

He began to fish in his pocket. Presently he produced some stout string. Farmer Brown's Boy long ago learned that it is very wise to have a piece of stout string in one's pocket, especially when going afield. Then he picked up the branch with the big nest and began to lash it back on the bush from which he had cut it. Yes, sir, that is just what he did. When at length he had finished, that nest was solidly in place.

"There!" said Farmer Brown's Boy, as he stood back and looked at it. "That may not look as well as before it was cut, but it will hold; that is the main thing. I hope we haven't frightened Whitefoot so that he will not return. Poor little chap! He must have had a terrible fright when I cut that branch. Now we'll go off and give him a chance to return."

And this is why Flip thought his master was queer. He couldn't understand why Farmer Brown's Boy had first cut that branch and then tied it back.

The next story: "Whitefoot Is of Two Minds."

Landslide Feared.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, March 9.—(AP) Fearing that the sodden cliffs encircling Madeira may topple over as a result of the heavy rainfall here, all residents near the foot of the precipices have been evacuated. The storm which broke over the island Friday night, continued unabated today, causing much suffering from exposure and want among the poorer classes. The gale blew with such violence that all seacraft were compelled to leave the beaches for sheltered spots.

Store Clerks, Attention

"For two years I suffered with irregularities and finally had to leave school. I got no relief until my married sister told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking only two bottles I felt well. Since then I have been able to clerk in a store, on my feet all day and have suffered only once from my old trouble. I want other girls, especially store clerks, to know what it did for me."—Dorothy L. Fairchild, 924 Walnut Street, Freeland, Pennsylvania.

Help for Church Urged By McGill At Druid Hills

"None of us can discharge our obligations to God merely by giving certain sums of money to the church. None of us can outgive God. The gifts of God to us through the church far outweigh whatever gifts we may make for the church," Dr. S. W. McGill, of Louisville, Ky., said in his address to the congregation of Druid Hills Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Dr. McGill is assisting the Atlanta Presbyterian churches in their united campaign for $600,000 for the congregational budgets, the benevolent causes of the church and for Columbia Theological seminary.

The subject of the address was "Gifts from the Church to Us," and the text used was "The Lord send thee help from the sanctuary, strengthen thee out of Zion." Psalm 20:2. There was a large congregation present. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Wade H. Boggs, the pastor of the church. The sermon in part was as follows:

"What the church gives us is vastly more than it is possible for us to give the church. There are some who think the church is of no significance. They regard it as something to be ignored. To some the church is obsolete and an obstacle to progress. We do not condone the faults of the church. We do commend the church as the only institution this side of heaven with a spiritual charter and a spiritual commission. Whatever we may give to the church the gifts we receive from the church are vastly more."

Three Holdups Net White Bandits $226

Irman Hamilton, of 407 Jefferson street, College Park, manager of a Rogers Grocery store at 925 Oak street, N. E., reported to Police Captain A. J. Holcomb Sunday that he was held up shortly after midnight Saturday, while on his way home from the store, and robbed of more than $200 in cash by a white man who had a confederate waiting near-by in an automobile. J. E. Roberson, of 729 Crew street, an employee of the store, was robbed of $4.

A. M. Griffith, 1130 Piedmont avenue, told police Sunday that three white men in an automobile robbed him of $18 late Saturday night on Fourteenth street, between Peachtree and Piedmont. Four negroes, A. Marland, 1040 Beckwith street, told police, robbed him of $4 late Saturday night in Maddox Park.

Dr. McElveen Talks On Meaning of Lent

Declaring that the "sour Christian is as unnatural as the sad child," Dr. W. T. McElveen, pastor of the United Congregational church, in a sermon at the Woman's Club Sunday morning, admonished his worshippers "not to be a knight f the rueful countenance and talk in a minor key because there is no virtue in being sepulchral in appearance or putting the tones of the tomb in your voice."

Discussing the meaning of Lent, Dr. McElveen stressed the fact that it was not during the 40 days that Jesus was hungry but it was in the period that followed Lent.

"Jesus did not go into the wilderness," the pastor said, "to fast. It was not part of his program to fast. The fasting was incidental. Indeed, Jesus never deliberately fasted. His disciples seemed to have been taught by Jesus to refrain from fasting. The Gospel the Master likened to a feast, a banquet, a wedding festival. It was glad tidings and good news."

"It is easier," Dr. McElveen concluded," to be pious than it is to be religious. It is easier to do some church chore than it is to live in a filial way toward God and in a fraternal way toward men."

Stimson's Statement On Navy Cut Attacked

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—The League for Independent Political Action tonight cabled the American delegation to the London naval conference, charging that Secretary of State Stimson had made a misleading statement when he said present conference plans meant a reduction of 200,000 tons in the American navy. The league made a plea for "bona fide reduction."

The message was authorized by an executiv session of the league and signed by Professor John Dewey, national chairman; Devere Allen, chairman of the executive committee, and Howard Y. Williams, executive secretary.

"The League for Independent Political Action desires to express amazement at your misleading statement pledging reduction based on figures for 1936," the message said. "We warn against disappointing the overwhelming demand among the American people for bona fide reduction. They will tolerate no evasion on this point, and we will hold the American delegation and administration accountable for failure of reduction if insistence on the fetish of parity thwarts the purposes for which the conference was called."

FORMER CHIEF JETT TO BE BURIED TODAY

Policemen Will Act as Pallbearers at Funeral of Veteran Officer.

Funeral services for former Chief of Police Ewell Leonard Jett, member of the Atlanta police force for more than 40 years, will take place from Spring Hill chapel at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the Rev. W. L. Duren, pastor of St. Mark Methodist Episcopal church, officiating.

The department of which he was a member for so many years is to show its respect by the presence of the police band and an escort of the motorcycle squad at the funeral today. The pallbearers will be men from the police service. They will be Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Captain A. J. Holcombe, Captain Grover C. Fain, Captain J. E. Chandler, Lieutenant W. P. Reed and Lieutenant L. J. Carroll. Interment will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Chief Jett was born in Fulton county, near Buckhead, January 11, 1866, and died at a local hospital Saturday night after an illness of several months. He was 64 years old. He became a policeman when he was 24 and served through the various offices of patrolman, captain, assistant chief and assistant chief in charge of detectives. After a reorganization in 1919 he became second assistant chief. He was acting chief from April 12, 1924, until his retirement May 19, 1926, filling the post left vacant by the suspension of Chief James L. Beavers. The state legislature provided a pension for Chief Jett upon his retirement.

During his service he faced some of the most difficult situations in the annals of local crime. In 1902 during the riots in the Pittsburg section he served for two and three days at a time without food or sleep. It was during this hectic period that many private citizens lost their lives as well as two county officers and two policemen.

He served with distinction during the excitement that prevailed following the Leo Frank trial in 1913 and under his leadership as a captain many crowds were dispersed by his men. Again in 1916 during a street car strike when two cars were dynamited he was called upon for strenuous service.

Chief Jett is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Ruby J. Swint, of Atlanta, and Mrs. G. D. Lewis, of LaGrange; a son, A. B. Jett, of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Atlanta; Mrs. Martha Ragsdale, Birmingham; Mrs. Frank Garner, Atlanta, and two grandchildren, Miss Elsie Swint and Master Billie Swint.

A. M. E. GIVES WOMAN LICENSE TO PREACH

For the first time in the history of the A. M. E. church, a negro woman has been granted a license to preach. The dispensation occurred at the Sunday morning service at the Amanda Flipper church when Dr. J. L. Butler, presiding elder, preached to a large crowd on the subject of "The Parable of the Sower."

Illiteracy Meeting Will Be Held Today

There will be a conference in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol at 10 o'clock this morning of city and county school superintendents from middle and northern Georgia for the purpose of discussing final plans for winding up the Georgia illiteracy campaign on April 1, when enumerators are scheduled to begin taking the decennial census.

Previous regional meetings have been held in Rome, Gainesville and Athens, and the Atlanta meeting this morning, which will be attended by officials representing the state department of education, will formulate plans for concluding the drive.

The rainy day comes mostly to the unprepared. Safeguard your future. Find out about Southern Natural Gas Corporation's Savings Plan.—(adv.)

(Title Copyrighted, 1930.)

First Thessalonians, 5:21: PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD.

The prohibition question is getting no better—fast. It has become a bagatelle, driven between the extremists on both sides.

Militant drys, many of them high in the councils of church denominations, hoot at the idea of more liquor being drunk than was consumed before the Volstead act. When one recalls the days of open bar rooms, they appear to be right.

But the hooters often show venom, double-distilled from pure prejudice.

Aggressive wets ridicule their opponents' claims and say with equal ill-feeling that the theory that less alcohol is now used is an insult to American intelligence. When the nightly "whoopee" parties are counted, the conclusion is forced that there is some ground for this position.

The drys assert that liquor lowers morals and shortens life, yet when innocent people are insulted, man-handled, killed by irresponsible agents, the loudest protest come from the other faction.

Partisan drys seem to want the form of prohibition, whether it be effective or not. Many wets who advocate light wines and beer as the solution, are in reality thirsty for whisky, brandy and gin.

Prove all things, says St. Paul—test them. Are there not sane, open-minded church leaders willing to start the right sort of inquiry, with no thought save that of learning the facts?

Proof is being sought in abundance, oh, yes—but it is a contest mainly to prove partisan claims rather than truth.

It is so easy to resist the other fellow's temptation. The average prohibition champion, especially the churchman, knows nothing of the pangs of alcohol thirst, yet some of them show a degree of malice that would shame a drunken wife-beater.

Where is the clear-eyed, open-minded guide who will lead us out of this chaos—who will seek to prove, not the path he likes, but the way of right?

The cause of truth will never be served by prejudice.

Prejudice caused the Inquisition, brought about the horrors of the Salem witchcraft. Prejudice can blind the eyes to justice with a blackness deep as Hades. It can produce anything that is diabolical.

Oh, Prejudice, Prejudice, ogre of the ages!

Here and There

A press story states that college heads met in Chicago, "seeking a way to drive education into the great mass of pupils." The old-fashioned hickory was no slouch of a driving tool back in the little red schoolhouse. It drove readin', writin', 'rithmetic, joggaphy and other subjects into quite a "mass."

Maybe the old tried and true "persuader" should be promoted to college work. Perhaps our educators should say to it, in the language of Scripture, "Friend, go up higher"—and hit harder.

We're Socking The Turned Stocking

Ladies—and particularly the younger ones—you need not turn your hose wrong-side out any more.

Male readers, what do you suppose has been going on under your very eyes and you hadn't noticed it? The girls have been wearing their hose inside out—and they've been doing it a matter of six months or more.

Why? Because it makes them look sheerer. Not only that, more than one of the lovely young things declare that they wear longer as well as look better. And they were right—as usual—at least, you can't prove they were wrong?

There was only one trouble—that seam down the back looked not so good. Now, the manufacturers of Rograin hosiery are smart people—and they have thrown themselves into the breach with a stocking looking a dollar sheerer than it is and wearing a dollar longer. Only $1.95 a pair—hosiery department, main floor.

The Cause

On an emerald hill where the daffodil
Waved a sweet farewell that day,
We said goodbye and with yearning eye
Each took a separate way.

It were all quite well, with the subtle spell
Of your presence still o'er me
To say, dear heart, that when we'd part
I could a stoic be.

But, as evening fell—I recall so well—
And the spring's first budding flowers
Will e'er bring back down my life's whole track
Those strangely poignant hours—

Yes, with evening's dew, to my love for you
Came a doubt that you'd changeless be,
Though in fields flower-strewed, you'd that day renewed
Your vow of constancy.

Oh, I deemed you lost, as I sleepless tossed
In this strange trouble deep—
Then good Aunt Rhoda gave me baking soda,
And I went right off to sleep!

The Treasure House of Martin Hews

by E. Phillips Oppenheim

INSTALLMENT 37.

"Well," I announced. "I'm ready. How do we go?"

"I have a car waiting. We will drive to the house where Joseph is living. You may possibly recognize it. You will certainly be able to find it again, without difficulty. All that is demanded of you is that, if you should fail to come to terms with my chief, for 12 hours after your return here you keep silent."

"Just my word?" I asked incredulously.

"Just your word. Joseph has the courage to trust. You are going to be brought face to face with the man for whom you have searched night and day, and you will leave him when your conversation is finished as though you were an ordinary caller, but, if you should break your parole, you would be lying upon your back before tomorrow night, and the stars might wink down at you, but you would not wink back. No threat, you understand," he went, "no threat at all. It just happens. It has happened to one or two; if my chief's judgment is right, it won't happen to you. There are men who keep their word as naturally as they breathe. Joseph thinks you are one. If so, you are safe. If he is making a mistake, he may suffer for it, but so will you."

I put on my hat and coat, assisted my guest into his, and descended to the street. We drove off, and I took note of our passage through the familiar thoroughfares.

The streets were emptying as we turned up Baker street, past Grove road and Lord's Cricket Ground, through Hampstead, Golder's Green and Finchley, and increased our speed as we came to the open country beyond. When we turned off the main road, about half-way to Hatfield, I asked Leopold a question.

"Much farther?"

"We are almost there," was the response. "You can see the lights of the house among the trees."

We turned in through broad gates guarded by twin lodges, drove for a mile along a well-kept, curving avenue, and crossed a park studded with magnificent trees. Always in front of us, the lights were twinkling from a large Georgian mansion.

"You are paying a visit," Leopold confided, "to Sir Bruce Pettefar."

"The deuce!" I exclaimed. "Is Joseph going in for titles?"

"All that you need to have in your mind for the moment is that you are paying a visit to Sir Bruce Pettefar,' Mr. Leopold replied coldly. "We have finished, if you please, with all references to Joseph, Ruben Sams and such matters. Sir Bruce is an invalid who has lived here for many years. I have recently become his secretary."

A very handsome and well-kept estate, so far as one could judge in the moonlight. A butler admitted us and welcomed Leopold as though he were one of the household.

We crossed a large, old-fashioned hall, and the butler knocked upon the door of one of the front rooms. A languid voice bade us enter.

"The gentleman you were expecting, Sir Bruce," he announced, and left us.

So the supreme moment had arrived. I knew from Martin Hews and Bloor, and also from my own observation, of this man's amazing skill in making up and in counterfeiting personalities, but I still thought that I was confronted by a stranger when I glanced towards the tall man in a well-cut, but rather shabby, dinner suit, who stood with his back towards a roaring fire. His black hair, no longer sprinkled with gray, was brushed smoothly from his brow. His cheeks were hollow to emaciation. It was not until he smiled that I was able to trace the slightest resemblance to the man whom I had fashioned in my thoughts.

"Well, Major," he greeted me. "Welcome. I thought I could count on you to take the risk. We meet for the first time under our proper personalities. Here I am for what I am—Joseph."

"I didn't come to see you," I told him bluntly. "You are no use to me under my parole. I wish to see Miss Essiter."

"That," he admitted, "is part of the bargain, but you can imagine that I did not take the trouble to send for you simply to afford you an interview with the young lady. I have business with you myself."

"Is Miss Essiter here?" I demanded.

"She is. You will see her before you leave this place.,,

"And, in the meantime," I asked, "what is it you want with me?"

"One thing, and one thing only. I want one interview with Martin Hews."

"For what purpose?"

"For sixteen years, Martin Hews and I have been bitter enimies. The first cause of our quarrel lies behind the curtain. Since then we have come into the open. We have ransacked the world for its treasures and sought to acquire them. But there was this difference between Martin Hews and myself: whatever I stole came back into the markets of the world. What Martin Hews grabbed was for his own greedy longings, his own gloating eyes and his alone—his own selfish joy. Shall I ask you to choose between us? I fought for what I could win. I risked my life many a time, my liberty all the time, the chance of being accounted a common thief from beginning to end.

"And what did Martin Hews risk? Nothing. He sat in his chair, with all the devices of science to protect him close at hand. Grudgingly, with stingy fingers, he paid a gang of robbers to fight against mine, to steal where mine would have stolen, to acquire by cunning what my Wolves would have torn with their teeth. Then there came—it was inevitable—Donkin's downfall. There is no one left for us to fight against. My men are fat with gain. I myself am weary. I have credits at the banks of every capital in the world. I have money enough to satisfy a Monte Cristo. I have quitted the field. Martin Hews is welcome to everything he has the courage to strike for. All that I ask before I leave the field is one half hour alone with him. What of that, Major Owston?"

"But," I persisted, "I have been in Martin Hews' employ only a few weeks. I have no influence over him. Why not ask for your interview and have done with it?"

"Because," was the reply, "I perhaps know Martin Hews better than you do. You have been with him, as you say, only a few weeks, but you are the only man he trusts. Thanks to you, he has attained his ambition. With the passing of the Buddha into his possession, he has the greatest collection of treasures in the world, and he sits there, shivering and afraid. He knows very well that many of those treasures have been acquired by bloodshed. Many of them, cunning as he has been, have passed into his hands illegally. Very few of them have been bought in the open market. By degrees he has estranged the sympathies of everyone who might have helped him. He now sees the writing on the wall."

"All this may be true," I conceded, a little impatiently, "but Martin Hews never pretended to be a philanthropist any more than you have done. I suppose I am stupid, but frankly I don't see what you're getting at. Tell me what it is you want from me? Do you want me to ask Martin Hews to see you? He won't do it. He is more terrified of you than of any human being in the world. I should be just as likely to persuade him to make me a present of the Buddha as to let you willingly cross the threshold."

"There might be a consideration," Joseph murmured. "You forget that his niece is here."

For a moment I saw red.

"You want me," I said, "to propose to Martin Hews that he see you for half an hour, in return for which you promise to hand over his niece."

"Precisely."

"As against that," I reflected, "in 12 hours after I leave this place, my parole will be up. There is nothing whatever to prevent my sitting outside your gates until that time and taking Miss Essiter myself."

"Nothing whatever," Joseph assented, with a faint smile.

"You say that Miss Essiter is here?" I challenged him.

"Naturally," he drawled. "Leopold perhaps you wouldn't mind ringing the bell."

It all came about so naturally that, for the first few seconds, I could scarcely believe in its reality. A brief message confided to the butler, and, a moment or so later, Beatrice crossed the threshold and came into the room. As her eyes met mine, a sudden flame crept into them.

"My dear Beatrice," Joseph announced, rising with lazy courtesy, "I conceive that it has become my duty to remove a small misunderstanding."

She and I were no longer lay figures in the drama of our meeting. Joseph's careless use of her Christian name had maddened me, and Beatrice had certainly ceased to be the indifferent chatelaine of Breezeley mansion. She looked at me with anger in her eyes.

"Major Owston has been engaged for some time," Joseph explained, "in a quixotic search for you."

"He might have spared himself the trouble," she laughed, with a very distinct note of scorn in her tone.

Joseph held out his hands in protest.

"My dear Beatrice," he expostulated, "hear my confession. Major Owston did not desert you on that memorable night at the Blue Skies. He was in my way, and I removed him."

She looked from one to the other of us. Leopold wheeled up a chair, but she ignored it.

"You removed him?"

"Precisely," he continued smoothly. "You were told, I think, that he joined some friends in a carouse. You read the report of the proceedings in the police court next morning. All wrong, my dear Beatrice. All, believe me, part of one of those little schemes to which I sometimes have to resort. The idea of that angers you, perhaps, but see how ready I am to put things right when it is possible. Major Owston has devoted all his time since that unfortunate affair to hunting us down; he has neglected all his other duties, he has run greater risks than he knows of. He joined in no carouse that night. His comparative silence in the police court was a very clever move on his part, I am sorry to say, to deceive and take advantage of our friend, Leopold. Against you, he is blameless. He touched no drink in the club."

She looked at me, and I saw in her changing expression the turmoil into which Joseph's words had thrown her.

"Is this true?" she asked me.

"It is true that I am blameless, except that I ought to have known better than to have accepted Leopold's invitation at all," I answered, looking her in the eyes. "I went into the secretary's office merely to sign the book. The world came to an end with me there in a second. I woke in a police cell. They engineered everything that happened between."

The rush of relief to my heart as I watched her was one of the happiest sensations of my life. I saw something more human shining out of her eyes.

"But I am ashamed," she acknowledged.

I raised her fingers to my lips. I refused to allow it place, but notwithstanding the joy of this meeting, something of that haunting and terrible fear still lingered in my heart. I had not the courage to put it into words, and she did nothing to help me. Our moment had passed, and I felt that I had failed to take full advantage of it.

"My dear Beatrice," Joseph continued, "I want you to use your influence with Major Owston. I have already told you that Joseph is on the point of disappearing forever. Before I go I want one half-hour with your uncle."

She shook her head.

"He would never see you, and besides—"

"Besides what?"

"I don't think it would be good for either of you. You would quarrel."

"On my part there would be no quarrel, I can assure you," Joseph declared. "There are a few words long overdue between us. They should be spoken. I have come to the conclusion that the only person who has any influence over your uncle is Major Owston. Why should he not persuade him to see me?"

Beatrice shook her head.

"My uncle will never consent to see you," she declared.

"Why not?"

"He is far too frightened of you, for one thing. His nerve has been giving way for years. I do not believe that there is any person who could influence my uncle to let you inside the house."

For a single moment I fancied that I saw something of the old dangerous light flash in Joseph's eyes. His manner, however, remained unchanged. He shrugged his shoulders.

"Then, since you will not back me up here, Beatrice," he said, "I will ask you to spare us another ten minutes while I finish my business with Major Owston. Where shall we find you?"

How Prizes Will Be Awarded

To the candidate securing the highest total of credits during The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 Prize Campaign will be awarded the $3,120 PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN (First Grand Prize); to the second highest candidate in credit standing will be given the $2,835 FRANKLIN SEDAN (Second Grand Prize). These two awards will be made irrespective of the divisions or districts from which the winners may be entered.

After the two grand prize winners have been eliminated from further consideration, the three candidates highest in credit totals in the City Division (First Division) will be determined and to them will be given, in the order named, the $1,615 NASH SEDAN, the $1,180 CHRYSLER BROUGHAM and the $935 ESSEX COACH. In like manner the three candidates highest in credit standings in the Outside Division (Second Division) will be decided and to them will be awarded, in the following order, the $1,495 REO SEDAN, $1,295 MARMON-ROOSEVELT SEDAN and the $965 PONTIAC SEDAN. These division car awards will be made regardless of district boundaries in each division.

After the two grand prize winners and the six division prize winners of cars have been eliminated from further competition, next will be determined the three candidates highest in credit standing in each of the ten districts. To the leader in each district will be awarded one of the five $675 CHEVROLET COACHES or one of the five $608 FORD TUDOR SEDANS. The five $675 CHEVROLET COACHES will be given to the five highest of these ten candidates and the five $608 FORD TUDOR SEDANS will be given to the remaining five winners of district automobiles. The second highest candidate, in credit standing, in each district will be given a $174.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO, and the third highest candidate, in credit standing, in each district will be given a $146.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO.

No candidate can win more than one of the above listed prizes. All candidates not winning a regular prize will be paid a cash commission of ten per cent on all new prepaid subscriptions and five per cent on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them, providing they remain active from time of entry and turn in at least $50 in new subscriptions.

Premium Loaf Proves Popular in Atlanta

"The reception Premium bread is getting in Atlanta is very gratifying to us," says E. F. Hazel, general manager of the Hazel Baking Company.

"We had been making this blue-ribbon, prize-winning bread for about 10 years in Macon before moving to Atlanta last fall, and it was very popular there and now we are pleased at the rapid weekly growth we are making in Atlanta.

"We guarantee every loaf of our Premium bread," continued Mr. Hazel, "to be made of the best hard wheat flour, milk, honey, sugar, malt, yeast and salt and each loaf is made and wrapped by automatic machinery, assuring our customers that our products come to them clean.

"It has always been our policy to co-operate very liberally with the retail grocers, restaurants and lunch stands and we furnish them a large loaf wrapped in attractive sealed waxed paper. This wrapper insures our bread remaining soft and fresh. This also gives housewives the opportunity of buying fresh soft bread until the stores close at night.

"The cake department of the Hazel bakery is also growing very fast, and a large number of girls are busy all day getting the many varieties ready for the dozen fast new trucks that deliver to all parts of Greater Atlanta."

This fast-growing baking company operates a large retail bakery for the convenience of West End people and carries a line of fancy cakes, pies, rolls and bread. A day and night force works in the bakery.

Premium bread and cakes are on sale in almost all stores in and around Atlanta.

Vast Improvements Made In Methods on Dairy Farm

The last 10 years has seen some wonderful improvements in the dairy business in and around Atlanta and especially is this so in the care and keep of the cows.

The average person who came from the country and now lives in the city would be astonished if he or she were to visit the Brownlee-Lively dairy on the Briarcliff road. Here may be seen a dairy that is kept clean by men that take pride in doing it.

There is room for nearly 100 cows in a specially built barn and it has a well-drained sloping cement floor that is washed twice a day. The cows are also washed twice a day before milking time, nothing being left undone for the care and health of the animals.

This dairy is situated on 75 acres of well-drained land and is in one of the highest parts of DeKalb county.

The water that the cows drink is the same as that used by the families on the farm, coming from a deep well that is covered.

The milk is given close attention. It is strained and bottled for delivery as natural, pure milk.

This dairy is equipped to make its own ice and has special large coolers to take care of the night milking and every bottle is properly handled. The senior member of the company, W. J. Brownlee, says neither time nor expense is being spared to give the housewives the best milk it can produce after 16 years in the dairy business. The junior member is W. W. Lively.

Brownlee and Lively are not trying to sell milk in all parts of Atlanta but are making quick morning deliveries on the north side.

Big Waste Metal Company Prepares for Spring Rush

As this is the time for the annual spring clean-up, the setting aside of old metals and iron to be taken to the Knight-Luttrel Metal Company on Avon avenue might mean a considerable pick-up in cash.

This big waste material company with its Columbus, Birmingham and Savannah yards, is one of the largest of its kind in this part of the country and is in the market for any kind of waste metals and old or broken iron.

The Atlanta yard is large enough to accommodate 30 cars at one time and two large electric magnet cranes are kept busy loading the different kinds of metals into cars for shipments to different parts of the country and also to the port of Savannah where every now and then a boat load is sent to Germany or Japan.

In a large waste material yard like that of Knight-Luttrell Company there are often useful articles, machines and various kinds of iron and steel equipment that is not worn out, but received from some dismantled plant, and could be operated for many years to come.

One of the largest units of equipment on hand at this time is about a half mile of narrow gauge railroad track suitable for construction jobs, brick yards, lumber yards, stone quarries or any place where something heavy must be carried a few hundred or thousand feet.

These small rails are securely fastened to their own metal cross-ties and the sections are quickly joined together by fish plates which means that a truck driver or four men can transfer them from one place to another.

Mr. Luttrel, resident manager, says that the market for metals is very good at this time and that his company will buy all it can get, paying cash for old batteries, radiators and other white metals, copper and brass at market prices.

C. J. Williamson Issues Warning to Merchants

C. J. Williamson, one of the best-known dry goods jobbers in the south, at a recent style show held in his showrooms at 190 Pryor street, S. W., addressed a group of 90 merchants and buyers on up-to-date business methods. He said in part:

"Just at this time, when so much discussion is going on about chain stores and independent merchants, I would like to say a few words to my retailer friends.

"The first thing I want to say is, be a real honest-to-goodness merchant. you and your help giving 100 per cent to your business. Examine your own business and see how it stacks up with the best-conducted establishments of your kind.

"Is it being run in such a manner as to recommend it to the buying public in your territory?

"Is its display, character of merchandise, price and service as good or better than your competitor, be he chain store or independent merchant?

"If it is not, then organization, combinations or any other scheme will not make your business a success, for the public will not give you, no matter who you are or what you are, a handicap. They are looking for service from every angle, and the firm that gives the best will get their support.

"You can get into any kind of combination you like, pass any kind of resolution, but if you, as an individual, unit in that combination or organization do not conduct your business on an equal basis of the best in that organization, you will be just where you are now or worse.

"No sentimental appeal will make you a merchant or increase your volume of business. There is only one thing that will do it, and here it is:

"Individually applied through modern methods. And don't let yourself be lead to believe, by propaganda so common today that the chain store, mail order house or any other kind of store is getting your business because they are fooling the public by dealing in tricky practices, for that is not true. The heads of no reputable institution, either large or small, would stand for such practices. Of course, when the human element enters in error will creep in. The buying public is not and will not support such an institution.

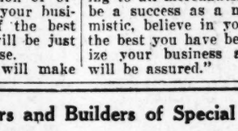

"If anybody is getting your business it is because he has applied modern methods such as the psychology of display, the psychology of prices and modern buying, buying merchandise rather than terms, and you are not pursuing these methods. But if you do you will need no organization or sentimental appeal to make your business a success, and the buying public will support you because you are rendering a real service and not because they want to penalize some one else.

"Your business will be on a firm foundation because it is based on modern business principles. In conclusion I want to say I am not defending any class of merchants, I am not speaking for any class. I am speaking to all merchants. If you want to be a success as a merchant, be optimistic, believe in your game and put the best you have behind it. Modernize your business and your success will be assured."

Mattress Renovating Busy Season Starts

The spring rush season for mattress renovating is now on and the several large firms in this line are working full time with extra forces employed.

One of the busiest is the Superior Mattress Company of 835 Bankhead avenue, N. W., and its fast delivery trucks are hurrying after old and returning new made mattresses to their owners in all parts of Atlanta and near-by towns.

This firm is well equipped to take an old or soiled mattress and, after removing the old ticking, regin the cotton or felt and make it soft again. After blowing the dust out of the cotton or felt or other material it is worked over and becomes soft and clean again and then the ticking is put on.

"A peculiar thing we have noticed about renovating mattresses," says H. R. Simon, president of the company, "is that once a housewife has an old or soiled mattress made over, she becomes convinced that she can have a comfortable, clean mattress made out of her other old ones for very little money and every few months she will call us up to have another one made over like the last ones."

"Another thing," said W. D. Meadows, secretary-treasurer, "is that we offer the housewives the choice of a large number of new and standard patterns in ticking to select from and in this way she can have her own choice of coverings."

MARKED TREE MURDER TRIAL TO OPEN TODAY

HARRISBURG, Ark., March 9.—(AP)—Willis Walker, of Wynne, will go on trial here tomorrow on a charge of killing Mrs. Lena Waugh Gambell Walsh last December 12. Discovery of her mutilated body in a clump of bushes near Marked Tree was the beginning of the "Marked Tree murder mystery."

Sheriff Landers has summoned a venire of 200 men for the trial, which is expected to compare even with the intense drama and mystery.

The Marked Tree case opened at a Connie Franklin "murder" trial for time when the Connie Franklin case was nearing its climax only a few counties away, and both centered around the corpus delicti.

The defense will contend the body was not that of Mrs. Walsh, although it was identified by her parents and buried by them more than three weeks after it was found.

The body of a titian-haired woman was found by two farmers as they walked through lonely woods near Marked Tree December 12, last year. She had been beaten about the head, shot three times in the back and dragged a long distance. The hammer of a pistol was found caught in the sleeve of her expensive coat.

A few days later Herman Clutts, of Memphis, identified the body as his wife's, and was preparing to bury it when newspapermen and a dentist exploded the identification. Newspapermen later found Mrs. Clutts alive in Blue Diamond, Ky.

The body later was identified as Mrs. Mitchell Robertson, Memphis, then Mrs. Thelma Howard, Blytheville and still later as Mrs. Arthur Baxter, Jonesboro. All identifications were incorrect although made by members of the immediate families.

Sheriff Landers was preparing to mark the case "unsolved" and bury the body when Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Waugh, of Batesville, identified it as their daughter's.

Landers learned she was seen last with Walker, 32, well known in eastern Arkansas. He also learned a new automobile she had purchased in Little Rock was missing. He trailed Walker to Dallas, Texas, and thence to Phoenix, Ariz., where he learned Walker was being held on a Dyer act charge.

Yancey Bros. Gets Orders For Several Large Cranes

The Georgia Manganese and Iron Company, whose mines are located in Bartow county, recently secured an order for more than $13,000,000 worth of manganese iron ore. To help fill this enormous order they needed two large cranes. They placed their order with Yancey Brothers, Inc., for two Model 700 P&H cranes on corduroy traction with 70-foot booms. These machines will be equipped with clamshell buckets for removing ore that is too large to pass through 6-inch centrifugal pumps which they use for hydraulic mining. Pits or mines from where this ore will be removed are 140 feet in depth.

The Hercules Powder Company, at Brunswick, Ga., which operates the largest plant in the world for reclaiming rosin, turpentine and naval stores from old pine stumps, was confronted with the problem of securing enough stumps to keep their large plant running. They decided to use crane equipment and selected the P&H. They recently purchased their ninth machine for this work, most of which are Model 700s (this model is known to excavating contractors as the 1 1-4-yard machine). These Model 700 machines are equipped with crane and special P&H stump puller, traveling on their own corduroy traction, under their own power. They drive up to a stump and pull it from the ground, roots and all, without any previous blasting or loosening. After the big machine pulls the stumps a small P&H machine loads them on large wagons on which they are transported to the railroad, where another small P&H machine removes them from the wagons and loads them on railroad cars.

The Powell Paving Company of North Carolina, Inc., of which H. Walker Powell is president, and who is preparing to open an office in Atlanta, recently secured a large excavating job in South Carolina and purchased from Yancey Brothers, Inc., a one-yard Model 600 P&H shovel for this work. This company operates several shovels and cranes of different makes.

The Powell Paving Company will use caterpillar tractors and La-Plant-Choate track-laying trailers for hauling the dirt away from this P&H shovel. This method of hauling on excavating work is comparatively new in Georgia, though it is very extensively used in other states, and O. D. Duncan, manager of the contractors' equipment department, predicts that before this year is over there will be many caterpillar tractors and La-Plant-Choate track-layer trailers in operation.

The Harnischfeger Sales Corporation, manufacturer of P&H shovels, has placed warehouses at different points in the United States so that they are now in position to give service on parts or furnish service engineers to any point in the United States within 20 hours. This is a big factor when considering purchase of this type of equipment, as this service keeps the machine in practically continuous operation regardless of breakdowns.

Business Prospects Regarded as Bright

W. A. Horne, president of the Horne Desk & Fixture Co., regards his line of business as a good barometer of conditions in whatever territory located.

In a general statement outlining his seasons for believing that business is showing a steady trend upward in this part of the country, Mr. Horne says, "When so many executives in widely different lines are buying walnut office suites it indicates that they have great faith in the future for their own line of business.

"We have been placing some high class offices suites and other office equipment," further stated Mr. Horne, "not only here in Atlanta but in other Georgia cities and this is very gratifying to us as it shows that leaders in other parts of the state also see better business ahead and are getting better prepared to handle it.

"The safe keeping of records and the quick accessibility of obtaining important papers is being recognized as very essential in most all lines of business and steel furniture for the clerical forces and accounting rooms greatly adds to work being done in these departments."

The Horne Desk & Fixture Co. carries the nationally advertised Browne-Morse Company steel filing cabinets in all standard sizes as well as standard sizes in steel desks, and has its salesrooms at 55 Pryor street, N. E.

In addition to walnut suites the company has other lines of matched wood office suites and carries everything used in the modern office at agreeable low prices for grade "A" office furniture.

Ideal Delicatessen Features Many Foods

Wide varieties of food are to be found at the Ideal Delicatessen at 237 Peachtree street. More than 72 imported and domestic foods are kept fresh ready to be taken home or served at the restaurant.

From every part of the world come cheese, meats, condiments, canned goods and other things to eat. Among the imported foods is a complete variety of cheese. Switzerland, France, Italy and Germany contribute their products. Kosher and imported meats are here in abundance.

Condiments from India and ginger from China also are among the imported foods. Customers can obtain sandwiches made from any of the imported meats or cheese. One of the feature dishes is genuine Italian spaghetti with real Italian cheese and tomato paste.

P. G. Patterson, manager, presides at the front to welcome patrons and to see that courtesy and quick service is given.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Gains in industrial activity to augment the natural recovery from the slump of last year are in evidence, but improvement is proceeding slowly and the pace is still below that of a year ago as measured by the usual statistical barometers, the American Bankers' Association Journal says in its monthly business review.

New securities to be offered tomorrow will include an issue of $9,000,000 State of Arkansas 4½ per cent short-term notes, due December 1, 1930. The notes are being issued for highway purposes.

The bureau of railway economics of the American Railway Association reports that capital expenditure made by the Class 1 railroads in 1929 for new equipment and additions and betterments to property used in transportation service totaled $853,721,000, the largest amount of any year since 1926, when $883,086,000 was expended.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

President Hoover's address at the twentieth anniversary celebration of the Boy Scouts of America to be held at the Main ballroom of the Hotel New Willard, Washington, tonight, will be broadcast throughout the United States by WGST and affiliated stations of the Columbia Broadcasting system. The president will begin speaking before this gathering some time between 8 and 8:15 o'clock. The Columbia system will be on the air from this point for the 30 minutes.

The president will be introduced by Walter W. Head, of Chicago, former president of the American Bankers' Association and now president of the Foreman-State Bank of Chicago and president of the Boy Scouts of America.

"Turn on the Heat," by Julie Wintz and his orchestra, is one of the high spots on the "Blue Monday Gloom Chasers" program to be heard from WGST and the Columbia system at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The complete half-hour program is as follows:

1. It's Unanimous Now.
2. Turn on the Heat.
3. Just You—Just Me.
4. Singin' in the Bathtub.
5. Once Upon a Time.
6. My Sweeter Than Sweet.
7. Aren't We All?
8. Don't Get Collegiate.

The debut on the air of Mario Basiola, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will take place tonight through WSB at 8:30 o'clock when he will be heard as guest artist of the Cadillac-LaSalle period of the General Motors Family Party. He will sing a program of five numbers, including Prologue from "Pagliacci" and Il Balen from "Trovatore," recognized as one of the greatest arias for baritones ever written. In contrast to his operatic numbers he will be heard in "La Partida" (The Parting), Massenet's "Elegie" and "In the Luxembourg Gardens." The remainder of the period will consist of an orchestral program with Don Voorhees conducting. A feature will be "Londonderry Air," by a string quartet of violin, viola and 'cello.

The detailed program follows:

Turkish March, from "The Ruins of Athens" ..... Beethoven
Orchestra

Prologue from "Pagliacci" .... Leoncavallo
La Partida ..... Alvarez
Mr. Basiola, with Orchestra

Classics, old and new, but ever fresh in the melodic appear, will strike the theme of the Stromberg-Carlson program to be given by the Rochester Civic orchestra this evening from 9 to 9:30 o'clock. This program, with Guy Fraser Harrison at the baton, is presented from WHAM, Rochester, through WSB and associated stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

The program opens with the overture to "Orpheus in the Underworld," by Offenbach. Although this number is in somewhat more serious vein than was usual with this composer, it contains all the lovely melody which characterizes his works. A lively movement from Brahms "No. 1 Symphony in C Minor" is another attractive offering and two ballet airs by Moszkowski are among other intriguing numbers. The program concludes with Delibes' novel "Clock March."

A complete schedule of this program follows:

Overture, Orpheus in the Underworld ..... Offenback
Third Movement, No. 1 Symphony, C Minor ..... Brahms
Two Airs de Ballet..... Moszkowski
Passepied (for strings)
Minuet (woodwinds and double-bass)
Cavatina ..... Raff
Marche De La Cloche..... Delibes

WGST Will Offer Three New Features

Three new local radio features, headed by Mrs. Alberta Carroll Summer, of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music; Milton Pierson and by Clemmie Colmery and Cristine Lee, will be presented on their inaugural WGST hours tonight.

Mrs. Summer, who is well known as one of Dixie's most popular sponsors of radio hours, will be on the air from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. Assisting her on the program will be Miss Virginia Moore, mezzo-contralto, and Francis Collins, violinist, both of whom are equally as well known and popular with the radio audience.

Mr. Pierson will be heard as vocal soloist and sponsor of the 8:30 to 9 o'clock hour, while the team of Clemmie Colmery and Cristine Lee will offer a piano-vocal program from 9 to 9:30 o'clock. The Columbia Building and Loan Association, one of WGST's most popular sponsors, will be presented during their regular period from 7:30 to 7:45 o'clock. Cooper's Jubilee Night Hawks offer a 30-minute period of dance music beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

Fox Has Thriller In 'Lone Star Ranger'

Screen lovers who enjoy a picture with thrills, excitement, suspense and romance will find all these in bounteous quantities in "The Lone Star Ranger," Fox Movietone version of Zane Grey's novel, with George O'Brien and Sue Carol, which opens at the Fox theater today for a week's engagement.

Neither O'Brien nor Miss Carol have ever been more happily cast. Both give convincing performances and the audience is kept breathless from start to finish in this story of the old west.

On the stage, Fanchon & Marco present their "Drapes Idea," a novel and tuneful revue with a number of Broadway stars heading the bill. The Fox Grand orchestra and choral ensemble offer a symphonic overture on "A Castilian Rhapsody."

'Let Us Be Gay' Opens At Erlanger Tonight

Something new in theatrical entertainment makes its bow to Atlantans at the Erlanger theater tonight, when the newly organized Erlanger Theater Players present their first production. "Let Us Be Gay," pronounced by all critics as one of the outstanding comedy successes in both New York and Chicago, is the vehicle chosen for the opening week by the new producing company. It is described as a comedy which deals with an important social problem in a daring, yet witty, way. Audiences are apt to be both startled and amused as the plot develops.

With a company composed of some of the greatest of young American actors, Director Harry McKee is giving to Atlanta weekly productions that will rank among the best ever seen here. He has just completed a continuous run of 169 weeks, with the same company, in Montreal, and it is anticipated that a similar popularity will accrue to the organization in Atlanta.

The fact that the productions are to be offered at a remarkable scale of seat prices makes the inauguration particularly interesting. Top prices for all night performances will be 75 cents, while matinees on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays will be offered with top price of 50 cents.

The Story of the World War
124—The New Russia and the World War

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

AFTER THE REVOLUTION OF MARCH, 1917, WHICH RESULTED IN THE OVERTHROW OF THE CZAR AND HIS GOVERNMENT, MANY RUSSIANS BELIEVED THAT RUSSIA SHOULD WITHDRAW FROM THE WORLD WAR. THE RUSSIAN PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT FELT OBLIGATED TO STAND BY THE ALLIES. THE SOVIET WAS IN FAVOR OF AN IMMEDIATE PEACE.

THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT, NEEDING POWER TO ENFORCE ITS DECREES, SOUGHT TO CONTROL THE ARMY THROUGH THE MILITARY LEADERS. IN ORGANIZING THE NEW GOVERNMENT, THE DUMA HASTENED TO SECURE ASSURANCES OF SUPPORT FROM THE RUSSIAN GENERALS AT THE FRONT.

THE SOVIET LOOKED FOR HELP NOT TO THE OFFICERS BUT TO THE SOLDIERS. MARCH 15, 1917, THE SOVIET PASSED THE FAMOUS "ORDER NUMBER ONE," WHICH CREATED COMMITTEES OF SOLDIERS IN EVERY ARMY UNIT TO PASS UPON ALL ORDERS RECEIVED FROM THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

THE SOLDIERS WERE INSTRUCTED NOT TO OBEY ANY GOVERNMENT ORDER THAT EITHER CONFLICTED WITH THOSE OF THE SOVIET OR WAS DISAPPROVED BY THE SOLDIERS' COMMITTEE. SOVIET ORDER NUMBER ONE PRACTICALLY NULLIFIED THE AUTHORITY OF THE OFFICERS, AND COMPLETED THE WRECK OF DISCIPLINE IN THE RUSSIAN ARMY.

TOMORROW—THE RUSSIAN MASSES DEMAND PEACE.

Public Renewing Interest In Flood Control Question

BY RICHARD WOODS EDMONDS.

Public interest in the control of the Mississippi's floods, which burned so brightly during 1927-28, is flaring up now with renewed heat. This time, however, a new, larger and better-informed conception of the problem and the probable solution is apparent. At a recent convention in St. Louis the importance of reservoirs in flood control was discussed by numerous speakers as it has never been discussed before in this country; and the same thing is to take place at a flood control meeting in Memphis in May. At the St. Louis meeting the hydraulic engineer for one of the great power companies of the country showed in elaborate detail how reservoirs on the tributaries, built and operated primarily for generation of power, can be co-ordinated with flood control on the Mississippi so as to reduce flood crests to a volume levees can handle in safety. General Lytle Brown, new chief of the engineer corps, has said that it will be necessary to use reservoirs on the tributaries, and that it will be done wherever economically feasible. To all who have followed the subject closely, this is a portentious statement. It foreshadows an enormous program of reservoir construction in, probably, a third of our 48 states, many of them in the south; a program whose expense must be borne in part by individual states in return for benefits in local flood control, in part by power companies but in large measure by the federal government. It is a program that means the creation of immense new wealth through utilization of waters now running to waste, rather than the mere safe handling of unbridled floods in the lower valley. It involves also the formulation of a new national policy under which the federal government will cooperate with those states which will benefit from local flood control, and under which it will construct dams not immediately needed for power, with the expectation that as rapidly as markets develop, the private power companies will repay at least that portion of their cost that may reasonably be charged to power generation. The federal government will have to retain the right to control operation of the reservoirs sufficiently to co-ordinate them or a comprehensive scheme of flood control.

The cost of the larger plan may run above $1,000,000,000 when state and private power contributions are counted, but it will be worth immeasurably more than the other. And the Jadwin plan, it has finally been shown, would cost the government between two and three times the $325,000,000 originally estimated for it. Whereas the Jadwin plan, in order to preserve two-thirds of the river's flood plain, proposed to sacrifice to recurrent devastation the other one-third, with all its rich farms, its towns and villages running to a population of 150,000, and its rich Monroe natural gas field, the larger plan hopes to protect more of the Mississippi valley, much of the area now subject to disastrous floods on the tributaries, and to generate electric power where feasible, provide irrigation where desirable, and improve navigation in several thousand miles of channels.

The fight against the Jadwin plan has been long and bitter, and to those who have followed it closely, intensely dramatic. Great forces have been engaged in the struggle, but grappling for the most part silently and in darkness. The contest really started before the Jadwin plan was published. Before and for a time after the flood of 1927 had subsided, talk of control by reservoirs was common, but misguided enthusiasts made extravagant and unfounded claims for them. Engineers, both civilian and army, were quick to scotch such claims, and the public swung to the other extreme and concluded that any dependence upon reservoirs was foolish. Then came the Jadwin plan. In a brief and superficial discussion of storage possibilities it concluded that while reservoirs could be made to reduce flood crests to harmless proportions, their cost was too great. For the time being that ended all public interest in them.

Previous Statement.

In the Manufacturers' Record for August 4 four months before publication of the Jadwin plan, I had published an article describing the part that reservoirs should play in a comprehensive scheme of flood control. In it I said that: "Levees we must have—the largest and strongest feasible. Spillways we may have . . . but as a means to prevent flood damage on the tributaries, and to reduce flood crests on the Mississippi to a height that levees and other works can carry without danger, there is no substitute for reservoirs."

With the publication of the Jadwin plan, the Manufacturers' Record began to attack it on the ground that it would be economically unsound to adopt a plan concentrated wholly in the lower valley before the possibilities of protecting both lower valley and tributaries by a single plan had been thoroughly investigated. Landowners whose homes it would devastate organized to fight it. Civilian engineers denounced it as "prepared in frantic haste, based on inadequate data and of necessity unsound." The Engineering News-Record attacked it on the same grounds. President Hoover very properly never committed himself on it, but men who conferred with him on the subject came away with the conviction that he was strongly opposed to the plan. Finally, in March of last year, the American Engineering Council, official voice of the best engineering thought of the country, publicly condemned it and urged President Hoover to appoint a board of civilian engineers to review it.

The president promptly asked the attorney general if he had authority to interfere with a plan that had been enacted into law, and was informed that he had not. Advocates of comprehensive river development then began to hope and trust that the president would find some other way to induce congress to alter it.

Jadwin Retired.

General Jadwin was retired last August, and General Lytle Brown appointed to succeed him. It finally developed that a review of the Jadwin plan was to be made, but that the corps which had framed it was to review it. Keen was the disappointment and bitter the criticism in certain quarters. Our engineering president, to whom we had looked for masterly handling of this great engineering problem, appeared for a time to have bungled it as badly as his predecessor.

But General Brown is rapidly dispelling all such doubts and disappointments. First, he announced that reservoirs must and will be used. Second, he repudiated General Jadwin's policies on certain other matters dear to the hearts of the American engineering council and linked with flood control. Third, he has showed a fairness and a general attitude toward civilian engineers, and a comprehension of public interests, that are all radically different from his predecessor. And there are other things, coming by confidential channels to those who keep close to the subject, that give great hope but that can not yet be published. General Brown's report on flood control should be published in about two months now—and the flood control committee of the house, which in 1928 adopted the Jadwin plan, and which in 1930 has announced its determination to radically revise the plan, will be guided by that report.

President Hoover's method of handling the situation now becomes apparent. He searched long and diligently for General Jadwin's successor. Evidently he had to have just the right man for that tremendous job, for to have taken flood control out of the hands of the engineer corps would have discredited it completely, while to have left it in the wrong hands would have been disastrous to the country. To judge from indications to date, the president made a wise choice, one that may prove to be the wisest of all his appointments. I expect that Tennessee will have great cause for pride in this native son of hers.

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

Redeemable, at the option of the Corporation, upon 60 days' published notice, as an entirety on any date, or in amounts of not less than $5,000,000 on any interest payment date, at 102½% and accrued interest.

Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000 with privilege of registration as to principal.

O. P. Van Sweringen, Esq., President of the Corporation, has furnished us with the following statement regarding these Bonds:

PURPOSE OF ISSUE — The proceeds of the sale of these Bonds and of $12,500,000 par value Cumulative 5½% Preferred Stock, Series A, with stock purchase warrants, to be presently issued, will be used to pay indebtedness incurred by the Corporation in the purchase of certain railroad securities, including a substantial interest in the Common Stock, Preferred Stock and Convertible Bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, a portion of which interest is pledged as collateral securing these Bonds.

CAPITALIZATION — Indebtedness and capital stock of the Corporation outstanding on March 7, 1930, giving effect to the issue of these Bonds and of $12,500,000 Preferred Stock, Series A, and to the retirement of indebtedness are as follows:

Collateral Trust Convertible 5% Bonds (issued in 1929)	$53,923,000
Collateral Trust Convertible 5% Bonds, Series of 1930 (this issue)	$25,000,000
Unfunded Debt	$17,763,059
Cumulative 5½% Preferred Stock, Series A ($100 par value)	667,539 shares
Common Stock (no par value)	4,152,540 shares

Reserved and to be reserved for conversion of outstanding Bonds and of these Bonds, 527,461 shares of Preferred Stock, Series A, without warrants, and 789,230 shares of Common Stock. Reserved and to be reserved for exercise of rights under outstanding warrants, 2,409,353 shares of Common Stock, and for exercise of rights under warrants to be attached to 125,000 shares of Preferred Stock presently to be issued, 187,500 shares of Common Stock.

SECURITY — The Bonds are to be secured under a Collateral Trust Indenture dated April 1, 1930, through pledge thereunder of:

$7,000,000 Missouri Pacific Railroad Company 5½% Convertible Gold Bonds, Series A, due 1949
100,000 shares Missouri Pacific Railroad Company Common Stock
60,000 shares Missouri Pacific Railroad Company Convertible 5% Preferred Stock Cumulative
50,000 shares The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Company Common Stock
40,000 shares Pere Marquette Railway Company Common Stock

The Indenture is to permit substitutions and withdrawals of collateral under restrictions prescribed therein, and is to contain provisions for the maintenance by the Corporation at all times on deposit with the Trustee of securities of an aggregate value (determined as provided in the Indenture) of at least 150% of the principal amount of the Bonds at the time outstanding.

The Indenture will also contain provisions whereby changes in the Indenture with respect to the maintenance, substitution and withdrawal of collateral, and the method and procedure as to valuations and approval as to class and kind of collateral upon substitution, may be made with the consent of the Corporation and of the holders of 60% in principal amount of the Bonds then outstanding.

ASSETS AND EARNINGS — Upon the conclusion of the present bond and stock financing, the Corporation's balance sheet will show assets having a book value in excess of $252,000,000. The value of the assets including securities at their present indicated market value is in excess of $288,000,000 as contrasted with $96,686,059 of indebtedness presently to be outstanding. The income of the Corporation, computed on the basis of the receipt annually of interest and dividends on its investments at rates currently being paid, is in excess of $9,200,000 or more than 1.9 times the interest charges on the Corporation's indebtedness including this issue of Bonds. This figure allows for the receipt of dividends at the contemplated rate on the Corporation's holdings of Pittston Company stock, but does not allow for the Corporation's share of substantial undistributed earnings of companies in which the Corporation has investments.

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE — Each $1,000 Bond may be converted, at the option of the holder, at any time on or prior to April 1, 1945, or earlier redemption date, into 6 shares of the Corporation's Cumulative 5½% Preferred Stock, Series A, without warrants, and 10 shares of its Common Stock. For the purpose of conversion, the Preferred Stock is to be computed at its par value of $100 per share, and the Common Stock at a value of $40 per share, subject to adjustment of the conversion rights in case of subdivision or consolidation of shares, changes in par value, consolidation or merger of the Corporation or sale of its assets for stock or securities, dividends in Common Stock, and additional issues of Common Stock for cash (other than the shares issuable upon conversion of these Bonds and of those previously issued, and the shares issuable upon exercise of the warrants outstanding and presently to be issued).

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 97% AND ACCRUED INTEREST TO YIELD 5.24% TO MATURITY.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. at 10 o'clock A. M., Monday, March 10, 1930, and will be closed in their discretion. The right is reserved to reject any or all applications and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. All subscriptions will be received subject to the due authorization, issue and sale of the Bonds as planned, to the due authorization by stockholders, and the reservation, of the stock required for conversion of the Bonds, and to approval by counsel of the form and validity of the related documents and proceedings.

The amounts due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds to their order, and the date of payment (on or about April 1, 1930) will be stated in the notices of allotment. Interim Receipts, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when received, are to be delivered.

Your Income Tax

Up-to-date information and instructions concerning the income tax collected by the United States government. Who pays it; why, where, how and when.

The cost of capital assets, such as building and machinery, less depreciation and salvage, may be deducted from gross income if their use in business suddenly is terminated.

Usually such assets must be sold or otherwise disposed of, in order to claim a loss. However, there is an exception. If, for example, property has been discarded by reason of some unforeseen cause, such as change in the manufacture of a product to which machinery is especially devoted, or where new legislation makes the continued profitable use of the property impossible, the taxpayer need not have parted permanently with the property in order to claim a loss. But if use of property was abandoned because of depreciation or obsolescence, the taxpayer must have parted permanently with it if a loss is claimed.

Loss due to the voluntary removal or demolition of old buildings, the scrapping of old machinery, equipment, etc., due to renewals or replacements, is deductible. But if a taxpayer buys, as the site of a new building, land upon which an old building is located, demolition of the old building is not considered a loss and therefore is not deductible. The value of the real estate, exclusive of the old improvements, is presumed to be equal to the purchase price of the land and building, plus the cost of removing the useless building.

Alexander the Great forbade his Greeks to wear beards, lest the enemy seize them in close combat.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 91

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Meriem rode with Bwana's party only a short distance before she came to a decision. Calling the head-man to her side she announced, "I am going back with Bwana." The black shook his head. "Bwana says I take you home," he said firmly. He fell to the rear where he might better watch her. Meriem half smiled. Presently her horse passed beneath a low-hanging branch, and the black headman found himself gazing at the girl's empty saddle.

A search for her proved useless and they were forced to resume their march without her, for by this time Baynes was delirious with fever. Through the trees Meriem raced straight back toward the point she believed Tantor would make for—a spot where the elephants often gathered, due east of the Sheik's village. Moving silently and swiftly she traveled several hours without rest. Nor did her instinct fail her, for presently she caught the scent of Tantor.

Twice she heard the familiar cry of a great ape calling to his kind. Meriem increased her speed until she almost flew. Soon there broke into sight ahead of her the great elephant, shuffling along with the man and the stake balanced in his upcurled trunk. "Korak!" cried Meriem from the foliage above him. Instantly the bull lowered his burden to the ground, and, trumpeting savagely, prepared to defend his comrade from this enemy.

The ape-man, recognizing her voice, felt a sudden lump in his throat. "Meriem!" he called back to her. Happily the girl clambered to the ground and ran forward to release Korak, but Tantor lowered his head and trumpeted a warning. "Go back! Go back, Meriem! He will kill you!" cried Korak. Then he tried to placate the beast; tried to order him away that the girl might approach and free him. But it was no use. Tantor was determined no one should touch Korak.

Women of Turkey Now Free, Says Envoy

WASHINGTON, March 9.—(AP)—Abolition of the veil by Turkish women was described in a radio address by Turkish Ambassador Ahmed Mouh Tar Bey today as symbolic of a new attitude of mind on the part of the people of his nation—a desire that Turkey be considered as a western nation.

The ambassador said the dress of the Turkish women, with the veil "growing thinner and thinner," is exactly like that of other European women.

"The harem, which meant 'separate apartments' for the women of the household, has not existed in most families for over 200 years," he added. "Polygamy is also an institution greatly exaggerated by rumor, and rarely found in the past century, except perhaps occasionally among the peasants, and this for economic reasons.

"There is now before the grand national assembly a bill to give the vote to women, and there is little doubt that it will soon be passed."

WHEN it's a question of coal, the average householder can't well analyze it, test it, or even weigh it. He must "take it on faith."
We've been selling it for 46 years, to a steadily growing list of customers. We know it is good coal, clean coal, that it weighs 2,000 pounds to the ton.
We know that we are sending you the very best coal for your especial purpose that we can find on the market. And we place all of Campbell's reputation behind it.

AIR VIEWS

Gene Hinton AT CANDLER FIELD

NEW SHIP HERE—Here is pictured a two-place Travel Air biplane, of a type never before manufactured by the Wichita company. The ship was flown here a few days ago by Doug Davis, southern manager for the Curtiss-Wright Sales Corporation, ostensibly for William L. (Young) Stribling, although the flier-pugilist has not as yet taken delivery on it. The new craft, which, in many respects, bears marked resemblance to the Travel Air "Mystery S," which Davis flew with such success, is said to be exceedingly fast, its manufacturers claiming for it a top speed of 165 miles an hour. Its under-carriage and tail assembly seem to be the counterpart of those features of the "S," and the wing curve is identical. The plane's motive power is a J-6 Wright Whirlwind seven-cylinder engine of 225 horsepower.

AIRPORT WEATHER.

Weather conditions at the airport, at midnight last night, as reported by the United States bureau at Candler field, were as follows:

General condition, broken clouds; ceiling, unlimited; visibility, five miles; wind direction and velocity: Surface NW 4 m. p. h.; 800 feet, WNW 16 m. p. h.; 1,600 feet, W, 22 m. p. h.; 3,300 feet, WSW 22 m. p. h.; 5,000 feet, WSW 22 m. p. h. Temperature (deg. F.), 39. Barometer (inches), 30.01. Dew point, 33.

Sunday, for the first time in the city's history, aviation interest in Atlanta was divided. Divided between Candler field, where nothing of any special note was going on, and a spot out on the Campbellton road, where the Atlanta Glider Club held its first public exhibition with its new and lately-acquired Cessna primary type machine.

Fully 2,000 open-minded aviation fans, anxious to become glider fans as well, spent most of the afternoon at the new "port" and received their initination into the mysteries of the sport. Professor T. Edward Moodie, of Georgia Tech, organizer and instructer of the new organization, put on an exhibition flight for the edification of the patrons, flying from the brow of one hill, over another and down into a small valley beyond. The remainder of the club's activities for the day was confined to instruction flights, the students rarely leaving the ground for more than a second or so at a time. While Sunday's exhibition was not calculated to quicken the onlooker's heart-beats to any great extent, it was merely a beginning, with bigger and better things to come. The fact that there was such an outpouring Sunday afternoon would indicate that gliding's future success here, at least so far as public interest is concerned, is certain.

At Candler field, one of the largest crowds in months took advantage of the salubrious weather conditions to visit the scene of Atlanta's aviation operations. The two central points of interest were the twisted remains of Beeler Blevins' hangar and the nearly 20 airplanes it contained, all destroyed last Tuesday night in the most disastrous fire in southern aviation history, and the new Curtiss-Wright Flying Service branch, which started operations Sunday in the hangar formerly occupied by Eastern Air Transport.

Hubert B. Duckworth, chief pilot for the local Curtiss-Wright branch, and brother of Joseph B. Duckworth, base manager here, arrived during the early afternoon from Columbia, S. C., in a J-6 Travel Air monoplane. The big ship, which joined a Curtiss Fledgling, flown here Saturday by James A. Perry, Jr., and a Curtiss Challenger Robin, purchased by the company from Eastern Air Transport, was put into instant service by the branch and kept busy during the afternoon, making short hops around the field. Southern Air Transport planes also carried numbers of passengers aloft during the day, Lee Sanders, divisional manager here, reported.

Two visiting ships checked in at the airport during the day, both spending the night at the Southern Air Transport hangar. W. C. Briggs, flying a Sikorsky Amphibian belonging to the Grigsby-Grunow Company, Chicago, makers of Majestic radios, arrived during the morning and will take off again today, bound for New York. Many local dealers of the company's product were given short rides in the big ship. Fred Johnson, "flying traveling salesman," arrived from Little Rock in his Warner-powered Command-Aire. Johnson, who makes frequent visits to Atlanta, just missed the Blevins hangar fire last week, having stored his hangar in that building Monday night and taking off the following morning, only a few hours before the blaze started.

The International League of Aviators has awarded its international trophy for 1929 to Dieugonne Coste, French ace of the air, for the finest series of aviation performances during the year. The national trophy for the United States was given to James H. Doolittle, formerly a noted army flier and now working for a civil aviation company. Coste, in addition to holding the world's record for long-distance flights in a straight line, set up several new records for closed-circuit flights.

That an airplane with a dead motor can remain in the air longer than a parachute jumper falling from the same height was demonstrated Sunday at Roosevelt field, New York. Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, piloted a monoplane to a height of 1,500 feet. There, as Fred Cole, parachute jumper, leaped from the plane, Chamberlin cut off his motor. Cole was on the ground 1 minute and 5 seconds before Chamberlin was forced to land.

There were 9,740 licensed and identified airplanes in the United States on January 15, or one plane for every 19,800 people, or one plane for every 2,977 automobiles. This was announced Sunday in a report of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, which listed California first in number of planes, airports and aircraft distributors. California has 1,237 planes; New York, 1,160; Illinois, 729; Ohio, 571; Missouri, 474; Texas, 441; Pennsylvania, 434; Kansas, 432, and Oklahoma, 332. Nevada is at the bottom of the list with 7. California has 154 airports; Pennsylvania, 85; Ohio, 76; Illinois, 67; New York, 56; Oklahoma, 50; Wisconsin, 45; Michigan, 45; Iowa, 45, and Florida, 41. California has 66 aircraft distributors, while Pennsylvania is second with 38.

The one-piece woolen frock with matching jacket has proved the favorite at Cannes, France, for practical wear.
